Today

In Old New York.
War Is Not Pleasant.
Oxygen for the Patient.
New Blood Pressure Idea.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

IN NEW YORK, where this is written, everybody is busy except those not at work, and they are busy worrying.

The real estate tax rate has been increased for 1932, which means that banks, insurance companies and others that lend on mortgage will increase their real estate holdings.

MAX D. STEUER, a man not pleasant when opposed to you, is trying to convince a grand jury that bankers that close up, cause depositors to lose millions, and can't show a good excuse, should go to jail.

An optimist is one who tries to jail anybody here for stealing on a really BIG scale. Such gentlemen usually go, not to jail, but to Europe.

WAR IS NOT pleasant. Morris J. Harris, Associated Press writer, reports from Shanghai that he saw an old woman sitting on the ground weeping.

"A Japanese soldier appeared while I was looking, followed by several. The soldier raised his rifle, aimed at the woman and fired. He missed. The woman continued to weep, her face buried in her hands.

"The rifleman leisurely aimed again and fired. This time he scored with deadly accuracy. His bullets sent the helpless woman into eternity."

AGAIN, THIS writer says:

"I saw Chinese dead piled beside a cart path. The hands of all of them were tied behind their backs."

Later he saw an old Chinese man and woman killed in front of their house, partly burned.

The Japanese soldiers, to whom these atrocities and many others are attributed, would tell of similar atrocities committed by Chinese with Japanese for victims. Hundreds of Japanese have been killed by "snipers," Chinese civilians shooting from hiding places. And Japanese anger has been aroused by the unexpected resistance of the Chinese and the large number of Japanese dead.

What is the League of Nations doing, that was to "prevent future war?"

Is it not just as well that this nation has kept out of that precious league, which, in reality, is a league to permit France and Britain to do as they please in Europe? They don't please to do anything just now about Japan and China because their people have lost their taste for war, for the time being.

IN SPITE of "cash relief oxygen" generously supplied by the government, Wall street refuses to be cheerful.

After two Americans had finished a two-franc table d'hote dinner in Paris, one said:

"That was very good."

The other said:

"Yes, let us have another."

Perhaps that is how high finance feels about the two billion dollar table d'hote that the government is handing out.

BY THE WAY, short selling of stocks continues cheerfully. Protests of President Hoover against short selling, that undermines public confidence and destroys public values, and regulation made by the stock exchange recently, seem not to be taken seriously.

WHILE OUR government is administering oxygen to banks and other financial institutions to the tune of two or three billion dollars, Germany's government is buying up German bank stocks and now controls the third biggest of the German banks.

Some of American bank stock owners wish this government had that idea back in 1929, and had bought ALL the bank stocks.

THE NEWS of the day is a sharp decline in French exchange. It surprises the French and the world at large, to see the value of the French franc falling while France holds per capita more gold than any country in the world. Our bankers say the drop in the franc means that French withdrawals of gold from the United States will stop temporarily.

INTERESTING NEWS for those getting old, working too hard or worrying too much. Lajoie, of Los Angeles, announces the use, at the Hospital De La Pitie in Paris, of an instrument that "detects high blood pressure in time."

Dr. Lajoie says the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow suffered from a kind of blood pressure that he calls "silent hypertension," a trouble not revealed by old methods for detecting blood pressure.

American doctors will be interested in testing the value of the new idea.

MME. GADSKI, opera singer, is dead, killed in an automobile crash at 59 years of age.

Good music opens the mind to new ideas, as a plow opens the soil to seed, sunshine and rain. Perhaps in heaven somebody will tell Mme. Gadski how much good she did in her life of work as an earnest musician, as Bruennhilde, and in other parts.

TEXAS LINES UP solidly for Speaker John N. Garner as Democratic presidential nominee. His boom, rapidly growing, may interfere with Democratic plans that were carefully made, leaving him out.

RIDE VICTIM FOUND SLAIN IN SOHO

Mystery Man's Body Thrown From Auto After Shooting; Two Women Hear Shots

The body of Pietro Pileggi, 45, of 1106 Gibbon street, shot through the face and neck, was found sprawled in Emmett street, near Soho street, early today.

Dominick De Fazio, 19, stepson of the slain man, and Ross La Poni, 25, his son-in-law, were brought to headquarters by homicide detectives this afternoon for questioning.

That the victim had been "taken for a ride" police were convinced after hearing the story of two residents of the vicinity that they heard two shots and the clashing of automobile gears shortly before the body was found.

SHOT IN BACK

Police expressed belief that the first shot, which hit Pileggi in the neck, was fired from the back seat of an automobile. The second shot, they reasoned, was fired a second later by the driver of the car, and the bullet crashed through the lower part of Pileggi's face.

Cash and jewelry found in the dead man's well-cut garments eliminated the robbery theory, and police and homicide detectives immediately delved into Pileggi's affairs to find a motive for the killing. They questioned his bride of five months, who before her marriage was Mrs. Maria DeFazio, a widow. Neither the woman, nor her four children could give police a working clue.

According to Mrs. Pileggi, her husband left home about 9 o'clock last night to "take a walk."

It was learned Pileggi returned to the city early in February from Utica, N. Y., where he was employed as a foreman on a pipe line. Pay cards found in his pocket supported the information.

MYSTERY TRIPS

Since his return it had been his practice to go out early in the evening and return late at night, police were told by Mrs. Pileggi. He offered no explanation of his movements.

Herbert Abrams, of 508 Kirkpatrick street, found the body as he was returning home shortly after 2 o'clock. Police Capt. John Schnurr had Pileggi removed to Passavant Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Police learned that Mrs. Amanda Appleton, of 28 Emmett street, and Miss Anna Dortch, a Negro, of 310 Soho street, had heard two shots fired. They heard a car pull away afterwards, they said.

Pileggi was a World War veteran.

Powers' sister-in-law, Eva Belle Strother, also said she does not want to see Powers. She said she considers Powers a "dangerous man."

DR. WILSON HELD HIT-RUN DRIVER

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, was charged with reckless driving in a warrant issued by Deputy City Attorney James A. Bain, upon complaint of L. F. Welch, of Portland.

The warrant alleged an automobile driven by Dr. Wilson here last Sunday morning struck one driven by Welch and that Dr. Wilson was driving at an excessive rate of speed before the accident and failed to stop within a block.

Police said Dr. Wilson failed to report the accident as required by law.

Dr. Wilson, who was visiting a daughter here, has since left for California and will not return to Portland for several months, Bain said. The warrant for his arrest will await service pending his return.

ATTACKS NURSE IN HOME

An armed intruder attacked a nurse in her room in the Nurses' Home of the Presbyterian Hospital, 808 Sherman avenue, early today, according to a secret report made to Police Inspector Charles Faulkner.

The thug entered the home by a fire escape, made his way to the room, grabbed the nurse by the throat and threatened to kill her if she made an outcry, the report added.

He then said:

"When can I see you?"

When the nurse, anxious to be rid of him, suggested Saturday, the intruder departed, the police report said.

At the Nurses Home and the hospital today authorities refused to talk.

Gibsonia Farmer Hangs Self in Barn

Roosevelt Removes Farley

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 24.—(INS)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today removed Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, powerful Tammany chieftain, on charges of unfitness preferred by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter Committee.

Roosevelt's advisers expect Farley's ouster may have an important bearing on the Governor's presidential aspirations, but they do not anticipate it will result in an open break between Tammany and the executive.

Roosevelt based his action in ousting the Sheriff on the ground that Farley had failed to explain how he had accumulated $387,000 as Sheriff when his salary totaled only $92,000.

Senators Favor Use Of Wheat for Needy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—A joint resolution authorizing the Federal Farm Board to make available immediately 5,000,000 bushels of its stabilization wheat to the American Red Cross for relief of farmers in the drought-stricken areas of the West, was favorably reported by the Senate Agricultural Committee today.

OLDFIELD AIMS AT SPEED MARK

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Barney Oldfield, who had his heyday back in the time when automobile cylinders were big as buckets and the horse still was in good standing, plans to take to the roaring road again, hoping to win back the land speed record for the United States.

The dean of American race car drivers divulged his plans today while here to witness Sir Malcolm Campbell's scheduled attempt to break the record of 245 miles an hour that the Englishman already holds with his big Bluebird racing machine.

Oldfield hopes to have the car in readiness for trials in February, 1933. He said he already has drawn up plans for a machine powered with two 16-cylinder engines of 1,400 horsepower each.

Despite his 54 years, Oldfield said he felt better than in any time in the past 10 years.

TOKIO SENDS MORE MEN TO FRONT

Kiangwan Hurls Back New Attack; Japanese Planes Bomb Arsenal, Stir Panic

By DIXON HOSTE
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24—(8:13 p. m.)—A shell exploded within the United States Marine Corps defense lines at the corner of Tongking and Macao roads tonight as opposing forces carried on an intermittent battle just outside the International Settlement as Japanese troops concentrated for a new sweeping offensive.

With the Japanese army strengthened to unprecedented proportions, a new drive to blast the Chinese out of their positions along the Chapei-Woosung front was imminent. Information received exclusively by International

Japan to Send U.S. 'Warning' On Air Battle

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—As a result of the death of Robert M. Short, American airman, in an aerial battle with Japanese planes, the Japanese government may send a "warning" to the United States against American citizens fighting with the Chinese forces, it was stated by the Japanese press bureau here today.

Pilot Short

The first picture of Robert M. Short, slain American pilot.

The note will be sent, it was understood, partly because of the fact Short shot and killed one of the Japanese airmen before his own plane crashed in flames.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—A delegation of Chinese military leaders called at the American consulate here today and formally announced the death of Short.

The delegation made cautious inquiries to determine whether there would be any official American objection over Short's participation with the Chinese air force or to an official Chinese statement of appreciation of the flier's courageous battl against hopeless odds.

The Chinese also suggested a monetary gift to Short's family as a token of esteem, provided the American authorities here had no objection to such procedure.

Short's body, lying in a Chinese coffin, remained in the hands of

SENATORS ACT FOR BIG NAVY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—The Senate Naval Committee reported to the Senate today that enactment of legislation to build the Navy to the full strength allowed by the London treaty "will have a stabilizing effect on world affairs."

The committee's favorable report on the bill to bring the Navy up to treaty strengthwas submitted by ChairmanHale, author of the measure. It said:

"We believe it is imperative that the United States authorize a building program at this time and thus give notice to the world that we intend to maintain the ratios established by the Washington and London treaties.

"The testimony shows nothing to lead the committee to believe that the other naval powers of the world intend to curtail their building programs in the slightest digrees. Practical necessity, we believe, demands that the United States take full advantage of the privileges accorded by the London treaty."

The report said testimony before the committee showed "that our Navy is rapidly becoming a navy of obsolete ships, and will in the near future be entirely inadequate properly to protect our country, our foreign trade, our foreign possessions and our citizens at home and abroad."

Japan, the report said, had approved and appropriated for a building program which will bring her navy to full treaty strength by 1936 except for one aircraft carrier and six destroyers.

WASHINGTON SEES NO TEAS WARNING

Stimson Infers Possibility Of Building Up Navy and Fortifying Philippines

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Inferentially charging Japan with wilful violation of the Nine-Power treaty, Secretary of State Stimson today declared that the policy of the "Open Door" must be maintained in China or the naval limitation agreements must be abrogated.

This declaration was made in a letter from Stimson to Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in which Stimson reiterated the policies of the United States in the Far East.

VEILED WARNING

The Secretary's letter was interpreted on Capitol Hill as a blunt warning to Japan to observe the treaties which guarantee the territorial integrity of China.

The Secretary of State pointed out, in vigorous language, that it was because of the guarantees in the Nine-Power Treaty that the United States had agreed to give up some of its battleships and abandon additional fortifications at Guam and in the Philippines.

Stimson declared that the entire United States policy toward disarmament had been built upon the observance of the Nine Power treaty and maintenance of the "Open Door" in China. All the treaties signed at Washington were essentially based, he said, upon the solution of the various disturbing problems which were then threatening the peace in the Far East, and unless all of these treaties were simultaneously observed, all must fall by the wayside.

ANSWER TO TOKIO

Stimson's letter, issued 12 hours after the Japanese government had declared in a note to the League of Nations that China could not be regarded as "an organized nation," was interpreted as the American answer in contradiction of that stand.

Regarding the delay in China's progress toward reorganization from an absolute monarchy to a republic, Stimson said:

"The instability of her attempts to secure a responsible government were the very obstacles which the policy of the open door was designed to meet."

Stimson said he believed the present situation at Shanghai could have been avoided "had these covenants been faithfully observed, and no evidence has come to us to indicate that a due compliance with them would have

American Doughboys Must Yield Posts

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—After several days of hoping that they would be allowed to retain their front line positions which they have been busily strengthening for the past week, the American doughboys of the Thirty-first Regiment today received final instructions that they would be relieved tomorrow by a regiment of Scots.

The lines held by the Americans are considered to be the most dangerous outposts of the International Settlement.

'Mother' Mooney Risks Life On Trip to Aid Son

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Mooney, known as "Mother" Mooney to those who for years have been trying to bring about the release of her son, Tom Mooney, from San Quentin Prison in California, arrived in New York today to attend a demonstration in the Bronx tonight.

Although members of the International Labor Defense, the organization sponsoring her trip here, said she had been ill with heart trouble nearly all the way across the continent and that her physician in San Francisco had told her it would "be suicide" for her to make the trip, the 84-year-old mother walked through the Grand Central Station, refusing to ride in a wheel chair that had been provided for her.

About 200 sympathizers with her son's cause, headed by William Z. Foster, secretary of the Trades Union Unity League and Communist candidate for President in 1928, met "Mother" Mooney's train.

They gave her an excited and noisy reception, and it was with difficulty that Foster and the other leaders broke a path for her out to a taxicab.

Vet, 'Rich' by Insurance, Held in Second Shooting

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—John B. Ford, Raleigh Negro, who recently received approximately $9,000 in World War risk insurance, shot and probably fatally wounded another Negro here and then rode to police headquarters in his own automobile and gave himself up.

Ford said Tom Williams, the victim of the shooting, tried to rob him, but officers said evidence they obtained apparently indicated the shooting followed an argument between the two Negroes.

Ford had $350 in cash in his pockets when arrested. He said he had just drawn $1,000 from the bank to have a "little change."

A week ago Ford paid $25 and costs for shooting at another Negro, under the pretext that a "rich man" must "protect his interests."

U. S. REMAINS FIRM ON POLICY OF 'OPEN DOOR' IN CHINA

STIMSON NOTE REITERATES POSITION

Nations Must Uphold Terms Of Treaties or Abrogate Them, Secretary Asserts

interfered with the adequate protection of legitimate rights in China of the signatories of those treaties and their nationals.

Reviewing the events which led up to the signing of the Nine Power treaty at the Washington conference in 1922, Stimson said:

"It must be remembered also that this treaty was one of several treaties and agreements entered into at the Washington conference by the various powers concerned, all of which were interrelated and interdependent.

"No one of these treaties can be disregarded without disturbing the general understanding and equilibrium which were intended to be accomplished and effected by the group of agreements arrived at in their entirety.

WASHINGTON PARLEY

"The Washington conference was essentially a disarmament conference aimed to promote the possibility of peace in the world, not only through the cessation of competition in naval armaments, but also by the solution of various other disturbing problems which threatened the peace of the world particularly in the Far East.

"These problems were all inter-related. The willingness of the American government to surrender its then commanding lead in battleship construction and to leave its positions at Guam and in the Philippines without further fortification was predicated upon, among other things, the self denying covenants contained in the nine power treaty which assured the nations of the world not only of equal opportunity for their eastern trade, but also against the military aggrandizement of any other power at the expense of China.

"One cannot discuss the possibility of modifying or abrogating those positions of the Nine Power treaty without considering at the same time the other premises upon which they were really dependent."

KELLOGG PACT

Stimson said that six years after the signing of these treaties the Kellogg anti-war pact had come into being to reinforce the treaty signed at Washington. These treaties had for their purpose, he said, the aligning of public opinion and conscience of the world in favor of a system of orderly development by the law of nations, including the settlement of all controversies by methods of justice and peace instead of by arbitrary force. He declared:

"The program for the protection of China from outside aggression is an essential part of any such development.

"The recent events which have taken place in China, especially the hostilities which having been begun in Manchuria have latterly been extended to Shanghai, far from indicating the advisability of any modification of the treaties we have been discussing, have tended to bring home the vital importance of the faithful observance of the covenants therein to all of the nations interested in the Far East.

"The signatories of the Nine Power treaty and of the Kellogg-Briand pact who are not parties to that conflict are not likely to see any reason for modifying the terms of those treaties. To them the real value of the faithful performance of those treaties has been brought sharply home by the perils and losses to which their nationals have been subjected in Shanghai.

HOPE IN TREATIES

"That is the view of this government. We see no reason for abandoning the enlightened principles which are embodied in these treaties. We believe that that situation would have been avoided had these covenants been faithfully observed, and no evidence has come to us to indicate that a new compliance with them would have interfered with the adequate protection of the legitimate rights in China of the signatories of those treaties and their nationals."

Stimson indirectly appealed to other world powers to support the American position.

Hearing on Wilkerson Promotion Delayed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—A Senate judiciary subcommittee, considering the promotion of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, to the Circuit Court of Appeals, postponed a hearing today at which the jurist's defense was to have been made.

Senator Glenn (Rep.), of Illinois, in charge of the defense, reported he could not attend the session. Wilkerson's promotion is being fought on the ground he "enslaved workers" by harsh injunctions.

British Preparing Shanghai Evacuation

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Consul General Brenan today notified all British citizens to be prepared to evacuate Shanghai on a few hours' notice if serious fighting occurs in the International Settlement.

Women and children were instructed that in case of emergency they should proceed to the Shanghai Club carrying only necessary clothing and a 24 hours' supply of food.

Chinese authorities at Soochow, near where he was shot down after attacking the Japanese fleet while they were on a reconnaissance flight over the Shanghai-Soochow Railway. It is expected to be turned over to an undertaking establishment in the International Settlement when necessary formalities have been completed.

Short's skull was crushed and his body burned almost beyond recognition when his speedy new Boeing plane crashed in flames from an altitude of 2,000 feet.

An examination of the body disclosed no bullet wounds, confirming International News Service's account of yesterday, which revealed that the Japanese airmen had punctured the American plane in a vital spot with machine gun bullets within two minutes after the aerial battle commenced. Lieut. Kodani, an observer in one of the Japanese planes, was killed by a bullet in the duel.

The American consulate, acting on information received from the Chinese delegation today, has launched a thorough investigation.

PLANE HELD ARMED

Contradicting the Chinese statements regarding the plane's being unarmed, an American aviation expert told International News Service that he personally inspected the plane on which a machine-gun was mounted, before it left for Nanking.

L. E. Gale & Co., Short's employers, said that they were certain Short reached Nanking, but they said they did not know where he was headed when shot down. They received official confirmation of his death at the hands of Japanese army planes from the Chinese government.

PLANE HELD ARMED

Meanwhile, T. V. Soong, former finance minister of the Chinese Nationalist government, said today he was telegraphing Short's mother, asking her to allow her son to be buried in China.

He said the National government wished to give him a military funeral and to grant him posthumous honors within the aviation service. The National government, he added, would inform Short's mother that it was appreciative of what her son had tried to do for China and regretful of the fatal outcome.

WEST VIEW MAN DIES OF FUMES

Harry Wagner, Jr., 47, manager of the Bellevue store of McKnight Hardware Company, was found dead by his wife in the garage in the rear of his home at 34 Amherst street, West View, today, according to the morgue report.

The morgue report stated the motor of the car was running. The report gave carbon monoxide as cause of death.

Mother Shows Last Note of War Flier

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Short sobbed today as she displayed a letter she received from her son, Robert M. Short, a few hours before she was notified he had been killed in a dramatic air battle with Japanese over Soochow. She said:

"It was all a terrible mistake. He must have been flying a plane from Shanghai for his company."

JAPAN ASKS USE OF RUSS ROAD

HARBIN, Manchuria, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—A brigade of Japanese soldiers under Gen. Mural, arrived here today and negotiations were immediately begun with Soviet Russia regarding the use of the Chinese Eastern Railway rolling stock for an expedition against the force of revolting Chinese in the Imienpo vicinity.

Julius Rudy, managing director of the Russian-owned Chinese Eastern, asked Moscow for instructions. The acquiescence of Moscow was expected in view of the fact that Russia permitted the use of the southern branch of the Chinese Eastern for Gen. Juro Tamon's Harbin drive early in February.

The Chinese rebels were reported to have occupied Maoershan, 65 miles southeast of Harbin, and it was also reported a part of those who previously occupied Imienpo had moved on towns east of there on the Chinese Eastern.

SHELL PIERCES ITALIAN CRAFT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Admiral M. M. Taylor, commanding American naval forces at Shanghai, reported to the Navy today that a Chinese shell had struck the Italian cruiser Libia, piercing her side, and that the Italian commander threatened to return the fire if it occurred again.

Taylor reported he had suggested to the Italian commander that he not take retaliatory action unless there was evidence of intentional and sustained firing on his ship. In this suggestion, Taylor said, the ranking British and French naval officers agreed.

SHELLS LAND IN MARINES' SECTOR

Japanese Airplanes Bomb Arsenal, Causing Panic; Kiangwan Defense Holds

News Service revealed that the Kanazawa division of the Japanese army, totaling 15,000 men, had been landed secretly at Woosung early this morning.

MORE TROOPS DUE

The Uchinomiya division, which comprises 13,000 men and includes a mixed brigade, was held aboard troopships in the Yangtze ready to be landed at a moment's notice. Another Japanese army division, totaling 12,000 men, was believed ready to leave Tokio for the scene of hostilities.

Pending launching of their new onslaught, Japanese troops harassed the Chinese positions in the vicinity of the North Station while Japanese airplanes carried out an offensive against the Chinese arsenal at Lunghua.

Four planes, each carrying a full load of bombs, swept over the arsenal, dropping a steady rain of deadly missiles for half an hour and then returning to their base for more ammunition. Extent of the damage was not ascertained.

The Chinese guns at the North Station were strangely quiet, but machine gun and rifle fire from both Japanese and Chinese lines was heard in the Paoshan road area.

Strong forces of Chinese troops were concentrated at Pootung, across the Whangpoo river from the International Settlement. They were entrenched in fortified positions two miles from the Asiatic Petroleum Company's plant.

Conflicting reports were current here over the status of the opposing armies in Kiangwan, where since early Saturday the Japanese have been trying to dislodge the enemy as part of their carefully planned offensive.

Japanese military headquarters announced the village had been "completely occupied" by Japanese troops, but other information strongly indicated the Chinese were still holding their lines against the invaders.

BOMBING CAUSES PANIC

Bombing of the Lunghua arsenal, which is the largest arms and ammunition concentration point anywhere in China with the sole exception of the famous Mukden arsenal, threw the native city into a panic.

The Japanese bombers missed the arsenal building, however, despite the fact they dropped scores of bombs.

If the arsenal had been struck, widespread devastation would have doubtlessly resulted.

POPULACE IN PANIC

Long prepared for such an eventuality, the populace rushed into the streets when the speedy Japanese planes appeared overhead, carrying bedding and boxes of belongings.

They fled in wild panic through the narrow streets of the city, bowling over native policemen who tried vainly to restore order. The entire police force was called out, but was inadequate to deal with the rushing throngs, who fled headlong toward the French concession.

Comparative calm returned when the planes departed after completing their mission of destruction for the time being at least.

Official reports stated the platform of the Lunghua Railway Station was damaged. Most of the bombs were believed to have fallen on vacant land.

South Side Runaway Girl on Way Home

Vera Beondik, 19, of 2739 Carey way, South Side, leader of a "sister" orchestra was expected to return to her home today from New York where she was reported arrested several days ago following her disappearance February 14. The girl vanished, police said, after her mother had given her $10 to pay lodge dues. The mother, Mrs. Margaret Beondik, advised Vera to return home after learning of her release in New York yesterday.

BANK AID BILL IN DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Senate and House conferees on the Glass-Steagall bill for the emergency relief of American banks met today in another effort to iron out differences which have postponed final passage.

Unexpected delay has been encountered in harmonizing the Senate and House provisions of the bill.

The two major points in dispute are whether the relief afforded individually to distressed banks shall be limited to comparatively small institutions; and whether the emergency provisions shall extend for one or for two years.

8 MISSIONARIES FACING DEATH

PEIPING, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Eight Americans of the United Lutheran Mission at Kwangchow, in the southeast part of Honan province, were at the point of losing their lives at the hands of bandits today, the Hankow consulate reported to the American legation here.

The American consulate reported bandits had surrounded the group and were threatening their lives, and asked that protection be sent immediately.

Roosevelt Inspects Chinese Battlefield

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt sniffed the battlefield early this morning and found it smelled like burnt wood instead of like powder.

The Colonel, who is here with Mrs. Roosevelt and their daughter, Grace, on their way to Manila where he will become Governor General of the Philippines, was escorted to the United States Marine front lines by Nelson T. Johnson, United States Minister to China.

TEST DRY VOTE AGAIN BALKED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—The hazards of parliamentary procedure have handed the House anti-dry bloc an unexpected defeat in their effort to secure a roll call vote on a prohibition issue.

They brought to a test late yesterday the question of spending federal money for wire tapping in prohibition enforcement, losing, by a teller vote of 132 to 102, a motion to amend the appropriation bill by closing the $11,369,500 prohibition bureau funds to wire tapping uses. This was the expected result.

Upon it they planned to offer a motion to send the bill back to committee. Such motion permits a roll call, but only one recommittal motion may be submitted on each such bill. Before Representative Schafer (Rep.), of Wisconsin, could be recognized to put the proposition, Speaker Garner gave the floor to Representative Cannon (Dem.), of Missouri, who moved recommittal on another point. Later Garner told inquiring newspapermen he had not known Cannon was going to seek recommittal.

The situation involved one anti-dry gain. The teller vote recorded 25 more for the amendment than it obtained when presented a year ago on the 1932 appropriation bill.

JOB AID BILLS FAVORED IN CONGRESS

House, Senate Committees Approve Road Measures; Issue Provides U. S. Help

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—In the midst of difficulties over complicated legislation, Congress today was again confronted with the controversial issue of relief for the unemployed.

This question was brought to the fore by committee action in both Houses.

The House Roads Committee approved a bill to distribute $120,000,000 to the states for road construction and the Senate Manufacturers Committee favored a measure to appropriate $375,000,000 for direct federal aid and the same amount for road construction.

Already, the Senate has rejected a similar bill sponsored by Senators LaFollette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, and Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado. This one, by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, differs from the other in that it provides for repayment by the states of the relief appropriation.

Another relief measure to authorize the use of 5,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat for humans and livestock in the Northwest—was approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Special Taxes to Meet Federal Deficit Studied

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Special taxes on gasoline, foreign oil, electricity and gas and amusement admissions still are subject to consideration of the House Ways and Means Committee despite virtual adoption of the sales tax, Acting Chairman Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, revealed today.

With the committee facing necessity of raising $1,240,000,000 in new taxes to balance the budget, the sales tax, increased income taxes, inheritance taxes and a gift tax will not produce this amount unless the rates are raised, Crisp said.

Even with these taxes, Crisp said, there appears to be necessity of raising $200,000,000 to $250,000,000 more.

VOTE AGAINST CHANGE

There will be no change in the affiliated and consolidated tax provisions of the present revenue law, the Ways and Means Committee voted today in its first major decision affecting administrative features of the forthcoming tax bill.

No action was taken on the proposal to repeal the provisions affecting capital gains and losses.

The committee also deferred decision on changes in the law affecting the right of American corporations to deduct from their returns the amount of taxes paid abroad. Before deciding on any revision in this respect the committee desired first to ascertain what affect the proposed changes might have on American foreign commerce, and to that end will call commerce experts to testify.

Meanwhile, the sales tax subcommittee continued its deliberations with indications that a manufacturers' sales tax will be favorably reported.

CLASH AVERTED AT ARMS MEET

GENEVA, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—The French and German delegations to the disarmament conference today decideed upon an agreement compromising the opposite views of their respective countries.

Losing no time after arriving here from Paris, Premier Andre Tardieu immediately went into conference with Rudolf Nadolny, head of the German delegation, to establish an agreement which would avert an open clash between the two countries at this afternoon's meeting of the general committee.

The French will accept the drastic German proposals, directed against France more than any other country, as an "amendment" to the draft convention, International News Service learned exclusively.

BROOKHART DEMANDS SENATE PROBE MOVIE 'MORAL CODE'

FINANCIAL DEAL INVESTIGATION ALSO ASKED

Startling Revelation Hinted, Hays' Motives Attacked; Industry Denies Charges

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The motion picture industry was accused of violating the anti-trust laws, flaunting indecent pictures and unloading watered stock upon the public, in a Senate broadside fired by Senator Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa.

He introduced a resolution yesterday providing for a sweeping investigation of the industry and a bill to prohibit the practice of "block-booking." Under the latter practice, he said, exhibitors are required by the producers to buy a number of films "sight unseen."

Brookhart was particularly severe upon Will Hays, "Czar of the Movies," whom he charged with attempting to stop the censorship of films instead of trying to enforce his "moral code" upon the movies stars.

TOPICS DENOUNCED

Brookhart said:

"Last year it was the fashion to exploit, I might say exalt, the gangster on the screen, and the studios gave forth an uninterrupted streams of pictures featuring lawless, hoodlumism and vice for the entertainment, not to say edification of the impressionable young minds of the country.

"While some gangster films are still being made, the trend this season is definitely towards prostitution."

Under Brookhart's bill to prohibit block-booking, the producers would be required to furnish the exhibitors with synopses of all motion pictures before offering them for sale. Brookhart said that under the present system the independent exhibitors are required to buy from 26 to 80 films at one time without a preview of any of them.

INVESTMENT 'ORGY'

Turning to the investment phases of the motion picture industry, Brookhart charged that a few years ago securities were issued to the public "in a wild orgy of expansion."

He said that unless the Senate investigation is ordered, a "shakedown" of small investors will follow.

Brookhart said:

"The actors and actresses who have portrayed degrading roles are the headliners of the screen. Their doing, their habits, their whims are chronicled in countless publications.

"The average boy or girl knows as much about these actors—sometimes more—than they know about those who run the government.

IDOLS OF YOUNG

"They are the idols of the young people of the land. I leave you to judge, therefore, of the effect on their plastic minds of the playing of such glamorous roles as those described in time by their favorites of the screen.

"The charge I made in this body in 1929 that Hays was not employed to clean up the movies, and that he was retained merely as a smoke screen to protect the industry against molestation by public authority while it carried on its reckless program of capitalizing filth, is amply borne out.

"Not only has the Hays organization sought to influence and control welfare agencies, public speakers and the like, but it has reached into and attempted to control the trade organizations of theater owners."

Hays Agrees to Film Quiz by Senate

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, today replied to Senator Smith W. Brookhart's speech yesterday in the Senate asking an investigation of the film industry.

Hays said:

"From the press reports which reach me concerning a speech made by Senator Brookhart in Washington it is apparent that he chooses to reiterate the position he has taken for the last five years with regard to the motion picture industry and to rest his conclusions upon many untrue and distorted statements that have been published and repudiated from time to time.

"The motion picture industry has no objection, of course, to an inquiry, should the Senate of the United States see fit to authorize it.

"There is no secret about anything we do in the motion picture industry.

DONOHOE PAPER SEARCH LINKED IN SLAYING

Attempt to Steal Mystery Documents of Dead Man Probed; Bell Quiz Pushed

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 24.—While state police today continued their grilling of Anthony W. (Tony) Bell, R. S. Bledsoe and Cosmos Stengoni, a collection of affidavits made by Constable Jack Donohoe shortly before he was slain three years ago occupied the attention of District Attorney Wade K. Newell here.

An alleged attempt to burglarize a safe in the offices of Attorney Anthony Cavalcante, counsel for Donohoe, focused official attention upon the documents. At the time of the slaying they were looked upon as a possible means of throwing light on a motive. Contents of the affidavits, it is declared, might prove embarrassing to certain public officials.

CONTENTS CONCEALED

Cavalcante, under suspension from practice before the Fayette County Bar, declined to reveal the contents of the documents other than to say "they might have some bearing on the case. He did not report the rifling of his strong box to authorities because, he said, "it wouldn't do any good."

Nothing of value was taken from the box. Attorney Cavalcante said the Donohoe papers were not kept in the safe.

Newell, it was understood, planned to talk to Cavalcante about the documents and the attempted robbery. The District Attorney expressed surprise when informed of the alleged burglary, but refused to discuss it or anything pertaining to the Donohoe investigation. His only statement was:

"It will take time."

BELL ACCUSED HERE

Bell, who is said to have confessed to the slaying of Donohoe; Glenn Allum, who has also figured in the case; Frank Barchanowicz and Theodore Dawson were charged with falsely representing themselves to be government prohibition agents, in a complaint filed yesterday before the United States Commissioner by a special agent of the United States Bureau of Investigation.

Under such alleged misrepresentation they obtained $100 from Frank Pawloski, of New Kensington, on January 6, according to the complaint. All the men are now under arrest on state charges and federal detainers will be lodged against them. Bell was brought back from Buffalo, N. Y., last week where, it is alleged, he confessed to the slaying of Donohoe and implicated others, after being arrested for impersonating government officers in Buffalo.

Allum and Barchanowicz are under arrest in Westmoreland County Jail on state charges, and Dawson is under arrest in Buffalo.

Mark Hellinger, Sun-Telegraph columnist and co-author of "Hot-Cha," and Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, who wrote the music, are rearranging the lines and musical score to fill up the parts of both Velez and Reyes.

Lupe, accompanied by her sister, Reina, flew from Hollywood to Pittsburgh, leaving there Sunday morning and arriving here Monday afternoon, in order to start rehearsals at once.

Prince, Bride Reach London for Wedding King Gustav Banned

Karin Shy and Lonely With Film Stars As Only Guests

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Karin Nissvandt, pretty daughter of a Stockholm business man, who fell in love with His Royal Highness Prince Lennart, of Sweden, was in London today with the Prince for their wedding, a bit lonely and shy as a result of running counter to the will of the King.

After their marriage, which will not take place for two or three weeks, the pretty blonde Karin will not be a princess, for her fiance is renouncing all rights to his title and will become plain Mr. Bernadotte after the wedding.

They looked like an ordinary college boy and his co-ed best girl as they stepped, somewhat abashed, from the train at Victoria Station last night into a strange city neither had ever seen and where no one came to meet them except two hotel employes.

NO OFFICIAL GREETERS

There were no representatives from Swedish embassies, for the young man's grandfather, King Gustav, has disapproved of the marriage. For this reason the ceremony could not be performed in Sweden, and the couple came here, accompanied by two aunts and an uncle of the girl.

When the flashlights of 30 photographers boomed out in the station as they arrived, Miss Nissvandt hid her head on the prince's shoulder while he assured her with the Swedish equivalent of "never mind, dear." Said one porter to another as the smoke of the flashlights cleared away:

"Is that the bloke wot's renounced 'is nime?"

They were taken to a hotel, where until late last night the principal guests had been Gloria Swanson, Clive Brook and Adolphe Menjou. The prince said later:

"Miss Nissvandt does not like London. It's all too strange. Not like Stockholm."

He declined to answer questions about the royal estrangement.

TELLS OF COURTSHIP

The two met when Miss Nissvandt was 13 years old, seven years ago. The prince said he did not like the girl at first, but changed his mind and determined in 1927 that he would marry her. He said:

"I've never cared for my royal prerogatives and I willingly forego then to have Karin with me always. We have had many trials. It seemed like this moment would never come. But I made my decision and my grandfather made his. Since we cannot marry in Sweden without his consent, we have come here."

He said his mother, Grandduchess Marie of Russia, who lives in the United States, "understands." They might go to the United States after their honeymoon, he said.

They will live in a castle on an island in Lake Constance, Switzerland.

MILDRED E. GOODMAN

ACTRESS SUES MOTHER-IN-LAW

Charging that her husband had been induced to divorce her by his mother, Mrs. Mildred E. Goodman, musical comedy actress and dancer who appeared here recently in "Smiling Through," today filed suit in Federal Court for $100,000 damages against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Gussie Goodman, of Bradford, Pa.

As a result of his mother's influence, the actress avers, her husband, Gerard, deserted her April 21, 1930, three weeks after their marriage at Betterton, Md., and that he obtained a divorce decree in McKean County, January 24, 1931, "fraudulently, perjuriously and without notice to the plaintiff."

The plaintiff is represented by Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, of Pittsburgh. Goodman was described in the statement as a technical director in a number of New York shows and "well-to-do," with independent means.

The younger Mrs. Goodman, whose maiden name was Mildred Gethins, now has a petition pending in the McKean County Court to set aside the divorce.

RUTH TO ACCUSE MAN IN TRUNK MURDERS

Names Accomplice in Letter To Husband; Will 'Tell All' To Escape Death by Noose

International News Service.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 24.—Winnie Ruth Judd, convicted "double trunk murderess," threatened to break her silence today as she awaited pronouncement of her hanging sentence.

A man, she declared, was an accomplice in the murders of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, whose bodies were shipped in trunks to Los Angeles. Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, whose bodies were shipped in trunks to Los Angeles.

A jury found her guilty of the killing of Mrs. Leroi and decreed that she die on the gallows, a decree mandatory upon Judge Howard Speakman to pronounce. Mrs. Judd did not take the witness stand in her trial.

SENTENCE DELAYED

The sentence was to have been imposed yesterday but was delayed a day to allow state's attorneys to prepare arguments against a new trial, demanded by Mrs. Judd's counsel.

Should Judge Speakman overrule the motion, sentencing of Mrs. Judd would be in order, and at that time, Mrs. Judd has declared in a letter to her husband, Dr. William C. Judd, she will "tell all." The letter read:

"The trial wasn't honest or fair. I don't want to die. I insist that —— be arrested before Judge Speakman sentences me. A new trial without new evidence would be a joke. A motion was made to hang me, early. They are afraid I'll tell everything."

Authorities declined to reveal the name of the man Mrs. Judd insisted be arrested.

TELLS OF FIGHT

Her rambling letter to Dr. Judd described a "fight" in the apartment in which Mrs. Judd's two friends were killed, and declared she then fled to her own apartment. It went on:

". . . came in then. I was wild. He was drunk. He shook me, pulled me to his car to go see. We entered the kitchen. He looked at the sight. He picked Sammy up, carried her to Anne's bed; asked me to clean things up a little. He said he would get someone to take the bodies out to the desert in a truck. He then took me home and said never to tell you. The next day he said I had better take the two bodies to Los Angeles. He said Sammy's body has been cut in two and both were in the trunk.

"Now, doctor, I am going to tell the Sheriff the whole story, and I'm going to tell Judge Speakman, too."

The high pressure that caused the cold weather over this section yesterday morning moved southeastward to the Gulf states, while another high developed over Manitoba and Western Ontario. The pressure, high and low, is relatively distributed considerably in pressure. Relatively low pressure now overlies the Ohio Valley states and the lower lake region, attended by cloudy weather and scattered rain or snow fall areas. Another low of marked intensity appears over the Bermuda Islands, the barometer reported, 29.18 inches, at Hamilton. It is causing cloudy weather and rising temperature over the Northwest, but little precipitation.

Temperature changes were towards rising over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region, and towards falling over the Middle Atlantic states. Moderate temperatures will prevail over this section for the next several days.

HICKOCK TRIAL GUARD ASKED

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 24.—(INS.)—District Attorney John G. Love, of Center County, yesterday issued a call for state police from the Rockview sub-station and members of Troop C of the state highway patrol to control a crowd which jammed Center County Courthouse in anticipation of the trial of Fred Collins, Negro, admitted slayer of Betty Hickock, daughter of the Rockview prison psychiatrist.

Collins will go on trial here tomorrow, but already the courthouse is jamming with eager wouldbe spectators.

Hundreds flocked to the building yesterday, crowding the corridors and courtroom and the call for troopers was issued when a jam on the stairway of the courthouse resulted in several women and children being crushed. No one was hurt.

J. K. Johnson, Bellefonte attorney named by the court to defend Collins, who was a trusty at Rockview at the time of the slaying, said a plea of guilty by reason of insanity will be entered.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

Who Must File Them and Suggestions To Aid the Taxpayer in Making His or Her Report

(This is the first of a series of articles planned to give assistance in making out federal income tax returns.)

By March 15 every single person whose net income was $1,500 or more last year and every married person whose net income was $3,500 or more must file an income tax return. This requirement must be met regardless of whether or not personal exemptions or other factors make it unnecessary to pay a tax.

The United States government has a means of checking up on most of its citizens through the fact that employers are required to furnish the collectors of internal revenue with statements of salaries or wages paid to their employes.

If a return was filed last year a blank will have been mailed to you, but failure to receive a blank does not constitute an excuse for not making a return. Blanks can be obtained at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue in the Federal Building, Smithfield street and Fourth avenue. Returns can be sworn to and taxes can be paid at this office. Assistance in making out returns can also be obtained at the collector's office.

In addition to the requirement making it necessary for a single person with a net income of $1,500 or a married person with a net income of $3,500 to file a return, any individual with a gross income of $5,000 or more must make a report, even though expenses of his business exceeded the net income and resulted in a loss.

She had the most captivating figure . . .

But her skin, Tragic!

By Julia Foster★

Beautifully slender, marvelously molded, her figure. Then I saw her close. All admiration fled at once. How could a woman like that so neglect her complexion? For a few words of expert advice would have meant all the world to her.

* * *

You need never run the risk of having a "tragic" skin. You can learn in two seconds the daily care advised by the world's foremost beauty specialists. For the sake of a youthful complexion, do this.

Simply twice a day, morning and evening, apply a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water to face and throat. Work well into the pores. This is best done with the hands. Then rinse away with warm water. Finish with a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your skin. If your face is dry, apply oil or tissue cream after the night treatment.

More than 20,000 of the world's leading specialists have urged that for this foundation cleansing you use Palmolive Soap. The panel at the right, headed, "Beauty In a Test Tube" will tell you why. Please read it carefully.

Rest in a beauty bath!

Let me pass on to you a valuable suggestion given me by a beauty expert. It's both relaxation and a beauty treatment.

You can easily afford this because Palmolive Soap is so inexpensive. Shave up a whole cake of Palmolive Soap. Melt it by boiling in 4 cups of water and pour the solution into your tub. When you get in, just relax for a minute or two. Then, with the rich lather from another cake of Palmolive, massage your whole body. Don't miss a pore! Your skin will be the better for it, because of the olive and palm oils. Fatigue, nervousness, will be gone. You'll feel like dressing up in your best things, like going places. Try it!

And certainly, start at once on those Palmolive treatments for your face. Keep your skin young!

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE

Olive oil for the complexion! Always known to keep skin soft, supple, youthful.

But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every ten-cent cake of Palmolive—in this test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced Palmolive's great complexion benefits. It is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather. The color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—no artificial coloring.

More than 20,000 of the world's beauty experts have for years urged Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!

★Julia Foster has interviewed over 2,600 beauty experts in the past two years. She attends beauty conventions; is in and out of smart restaurants, clubs, theatres. Her information on beauty subjects is authentic. It deserves your careful reading.

WIDOW ACCUSED IN BABY HOAX

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—An alleged plot of a 29-year-old widow to pretend motherhood of a foundling infant and to present it as the claimant of a $30,000 legacy, was investigated today by police.

Mrs. Christine Niederiter Smith, of Buffalo, N. Y., was held on a technical charge of kidnaping. The baby, known in Cleveland as "Terry Tower," because he was found when a few days old in the terminal tower, was claimed by Mrs. Smith, January 22.

Sobbing on the shoulder of a social worker, Mrs. Smith gave her name as "Christine Niederiter" and said the child was her own. She was given possession of the infant and took him to Buffalo.

The $30,000 bequest was left by the woman's father-in-law to his son's children, should any be born. The father-in-law, Godfried Smith, of Buffalo, left nothing to his son, Dr. Chauncey Smith, because of a disagreement. Dr. Smith died last August.

to $35

Not one has ever before been sold under $39!

Stores to right of us, stores to left of us "volleyed and thundered." We refused to lower our price on PARKLEIGHS. Why? Because we felt we would be breaking faith with thousands of men who trust PARKLEIGH excellence, to lower the price until the lowered cost of the finest woolens and hand tailoring justified a reduction.

These lowered manufacturing costs are today a fact. So we hurry with the news that your PARKLEIGH Topcoat and Spring Suit (with two trousers) will cost you just $35. And that not a whit has been deducted from woolen quality, good hand tailoring, perfect styling or complete range of sizes. See you tomorrow!

DOCTOR'S WIFE ASKS DIVORCE

Dr. Jacob Ruben, physician of 5670 Beacon street, suggested continually to his wife, Helen Adelaide Ruben, of 5557 Darlington road, that she was insane, and that he would put her in a home where it would cost little and people would forget she existed, her bill of particulars charged in Common Pleas Court. She asked a divorce charging cruelty and indignities.

Mrs. Ruben averred her husband struck her during a medical convention in Atlantic City in 1915, compelling her to wear a veil to conceal her injured forehead.

Divorces were granted in Common Pleas Court to Callie E. Miller from Harry R. Miller and to Clyde E. Stewart from Mary Stewart.

Divorce suits were filed by Ida Stout against Edwin Stout, Sarah K. Palmer against Irvin L. Palmer, Mary A. Biston against Harry T. Biston and Catherine Lerner against Jack Lerner.

17, Must Pay Alimony to Wife, 35

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 24.—(INS.)—William Cawley, 17, today was ordered to pay $10 a month to his wife, Mrs. Sadie Parley Cawley, 35, who had charged him with desertion and non-support.

William, who became acquainted with the woman through deliveries to her home as a messenger boy, said he had been drugged and taken to New York where the marriage ceremony was performed.

Said Mrs. Cawley, wistfully:

"I thought he was much older. I still love him."

LAWS IN STATES BALK BANK AID

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Banking laws in various states prohibiting receivers of closed banks and state banking commissioners from borrowing money are handicapping the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in its efforts to free assets impounded by closed banks.

In states where bank receivers are allowed to borrow money and have collateral acceptable to the corporation efforts are being made to put into circulation deposits frozen when the bank doors closed.

Pennsylvania banking officials several days ago expressed the opinion that banking laws in this state prevented receivers of closed banks in Pennsylvania from borrowing from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

SEATTLE BEATS JAZZ MAYOR

SEATTLE, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Trolley cars will have no hostesses, bands will not greet visitors and there will be no cracked ice for riders of "owl" cars in this Northwest metropolis for Vic Meyers was defeated in his "personality" campaign for Mayor.

Meyers an orchestra leader who sought the city's highest office on a platform including these planks with his campaign managed by Laura Pa Plante, film actress, polled only 4,798 votes of a total of 113,888 cast in the primary yesterday. He ran a poor sixth in a field of nine.

John F. Dore, an attorney, led the field by a wide margin with 45,653 votes, and his supporters took that as an indication he would be elected March 8 in his contest with Mayor Robert H. Harlin, who as runner-up polled 22,626 votes.

2 PROBES BEGIN IN AKRON CRASH

LAKEHURST, N. J., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—A naval board of inquiry convened here today to investigate the accident which on Monday damaged the naval dirigible Akron.

The three board members and a recorder called as witnesses Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosendahl, the ship's commanding officer, and other officers of the Akron, after they had closely inspected the portion of the huge ship damaged when the stern broke loose Monday morning as a congressional sub-committee waited to go aloft on an inspection flight.

Rosendahl is confident the ship is not materially damaged and will be ready for flight in six weeks.

Germ of Divorce In Poor Cooking, Rector Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—The germ of divorce thrives in the kitchen.

There, in haphazard cookery, more marital unhappiness is bred than in all the night clubs of the country. So says George Rector, "wizard of the dining-table" who has catered to the American palate since 1899.

America's most famous chef, who is in New York from Chicago, says:

"American housewives are good cooks.

"Women are paying more attention to cooking now than in the past, because they have found they can make a dollar go farther.

"Also, they are entertaining at home more since prohibition, for speakeasies are not good places to give dinners and most people dislike taking bottles of liquor to hotels."

SNOW-BLOCKED TOWN PERILED

DURANGO, Col., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Faced with a traffic blockade for the next 45 days, snowbound Silverton, last night appealed for assistance in getting food into the community within the next week.

Silverton, a mining town, has a population of approximately 900. The city is 51 miles north of Durango.

Ben Allen, Silverton representative of the state highway department, told Durango city officials by telephone there was only enough food to last for a week.

A survey party of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad, which serves Silverton over a branch line through Animas Canyon from Durango, estimated it would be April 8 before the work of cutting through the trebendous snowslides would be completed and normal service restored.

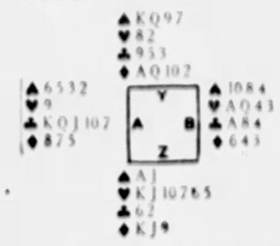
Can Z Go Game at Hearts?

Although Z lacked the traditional 2½ quick tricks for an opening bid, he declared 1-Heart, depending upon his intermediate honors and rebidding strength for avoidance of future trouble. A overcalled with 2-Clubs. Being short of partner's suit, but having great side support, Y bid 2-Spades. B bid 3-Clubs; Z bid 3-Hearts; A passed; Y bid 4-Hearts, ending contracting after B had doubled.



The opening lead was the K of clubs, followed by a low club for B to win with his Ace. He led back his last card of that suit, and the declarer trumped. Z laid down his Ace of spades, followed by the J and overtaken by dummy's Q to gain entry to the boarded hand. The 8 of hearts was led from dummy B played his 3, Z overtook with his 10, dropping the 9 at his left, and winning the trick. Entry to dummy was made by leading the K of diamonds and overtaking with Y's Ace. Dummy's last trump was led, covered by B's 4, and the trick won with the 6; A discarded one of his useless clubs.

It looked as though Z must give B two trump tricks. These and the two club tricks previously lost will defeat the doubled contract. But Z was familiar with what is known as Deschappelles' Grand Coup, named after its inventor who was a famous whist player. The coup consists of shortening trumps by means of ruffing good cards in dummy.

To execute the coup, Z led his J of diamonds and overtook it with dummy's Q. The K of spades was led and Z trumped the trick, to shorten his hearts, as the only possible means of going game. In case B had no more diamonds game was impossible, but the diamond lead had to be ventured. Z's 9 of diamonds was led and overtaken with Y's 10. Fortunately for the declarer B held another diamond. The players held as their last two cards those shown below.

It made no difference what was led from dummy. Having the K-J of hearts back of B's A-Q, the declarer could not fail to win one of the two trump tricks, which was all that he required to score his doubled contract of four.

The prettiest coups that occur in the game are: hand stripping, the squeeze, the grand coups. The last is less common than the other two spectacular plays, but it is quite as necessary to understand. Ordinarily the grand coup is easy to accomplish when suspected.

NEW YORK BANK CHIEF ON TRIAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, went on trial for neglect of duty yesterday as about 50 depositors who had money in the Bank of United States held a protest meeting in the street near the Criminal Court Building.

Broderick is charged with neglect of duty in not having closed the Bank of United States before it failed.

The depositors were harangued by several persons who lost money in the failure, most of the speakers demanding that the state pay the depositors in full. Many carried placards demanding payment. One read:

"We did not hoard. We trusted the Federal Reserve System and the State Banking Department."

SEEK TAX CUT IN WILKINSBURG

Election of officers and plans for tax reduction marked a meeting of the newly-formed Taxpayers Association of the Borough of Wilkinsburg in the office of Graff Brothers, 513 Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg, last night. Officers named were: chairman, Robert Hutchinson, who presided; vice chairman, W. F. Hoffman and Earl Brinker; secretary, Samuel Mawhinney, and treasurer, A. D. Harrison.

An advisory committee of three from each of the three wards of the borough was named.

Rex Newton was appointed chairman of a committee to negotiate with the school board for a reduction of three mills in the school levy. It was said the board could grant a reduction of one-and-a-half to two mills without cutting teachers' salaries. A reduction of three mills would necessitate a cut of 15 per cent in salaries.

Another meeting will be held March 8.

Use KLEENEX and destroy . . . No washing! No contact with germs!

THIS advertisement is addressed to every woman who has ever washed a handkerchief used during a cold, grippe, or flu.

A new disposable handkerchief!

Thousands of women have done so. You see them everywhere—in public, at home—using a delicate, downy square that looks softer—cleaner—than any handkerchief. It's Kleenex. The new, disposable, sanitary handkerchief that showed us how disgusting the old way really was.

Kleenex is just used once. Then you destroy it. Its amazingly low cost makes this possible. You have no unpleasant washing to do. You store no germ-filled handkerchiefs in laundry bags, to spread infection through other clothing.

And you never use a soiled handkerchief! Never carry germs back to your face. You run no risk of self-infection during colds.

Try Kleenex for beauty

Try Kleenex. And not only for handkerchiefs. Use Kleenex for removing creams and cosmetics. Its extreme absorbency assures you that your pores are really cleared of all impurities.

Mary Pickford Offers Plan To Raise Money for Film Relief Fund

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.

Gossip marts in Hollywood were buzzing today with the newest plan to raise money for the motion picture relief fund.

Mary Pickford proposed it, and here it is:

Filmdom's great ... will volunteer their services for a series of 13 one-reel ... to be called "Hollywood ... on Parade." Paramount will ... one of ... proceeds ... go to help ... motion pic...

Mary Pickford

... people. Stars will ... comes to the camera ... will unbar their gates ... great interest shown ... of Hollywood ... is believed that there will be a strong audience demand for the picture.

If the plan goes through and everything ... Louis Lewyn will produce the films. For some time now Lewyn has been putting out a somewhat similar series of shorts called The Voice of Hollywood.

DOINGS OF THE STARS

Greta Nissen and Wesley Ruggles are calling each other by their first names ... a former ... American football player ... with Fox ... Ernie Westmore and Ethlyne Claire celebrated their second wedding anniversary Sunday ... Eddie Cantor starts "The Kid From Spain" in May ... Here's a record. Joe Jackson finishes five years at Warners on March 18 and probably will sign another contract there ... Warner Baxter is building a combination projection room, theater and den over his garage ... Polly Moran and we all knew this would happen, has received a new contract at M-G-M ... Incidentally, this studio is agog over Nils Asther's performance in "Mister and Mistress" (formerly "The Truth Game"). He'll be as great as in the silents, they say ... Eric Von Stroheim is in the hospital for an operation and will have another in a week.

Joyce Coles is a feature in "Frolics of 1932," which comes to the stage in the Penn this Friday.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

Here's a good idea going begging in Hollywood. Capt. E. H. Robinson, aviator and technical adviser, thinks the motion picture public would go for some young actor in a series of air-films. The plan would be to build him like a western star.

Capt. Robinson, now advising Paramount on "Sky Brides," is an ex-Army flier, who was at Camp Kelly when Paramount was making "Wings." He resigned his commission to go into motion picture work, and has made a success of it for five years. He pilots the camera ships, does stunts or acts as adviser. In his spare time he writes aviation stories.

ABOUT MISS SKIPWORTH

Here's the first hint of what Paramount will do with Alison Skipworth, well-known character actress, who recently was signed to a long-term contract along with Richard Bennett. Miss Skipworth's first picture may be a story by Mike Boyland and Harvey Gates, who wrote "Hell Divers" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The two scenarists have told their idea to the studio and have been commissioned to work out a treatment. It's a story with a rural background.

Horace Heidt will bring his orchestra, the Californians, to the Stanley, opening Friday.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Robert Gleckler, who once was the matinee idol of the Harry Davis Stock Company in the old Duquesne Theater, may be recognized as the slightly tricky yet urbane Mexican cabaret proprietor in "Hot-Cha," the latest Ziegfeld sensation now playing in the Nixon. The part of Jose, who is Bob under that magnificent sombrero, is a central one and really is deserving of much more than the meager mention of him that the regular revue permitted yesterday. It was no way to treat an old college chump, and a really fine player, who does an excellent job of making a musical comedy semi-villain ring true to form. We wonder if Bob, now married and a parent, ever knew that many youthful feminine hearts once fluttered when he did his stuff as the youngest leading man ever to appear here in stock in the good old days. After his first experience here, he returned as leading man in the stock company in the Pitt when it was operated by the late William Moore Patch with Mary Hall as leading woman opposite him as she had been in the Duquesne. Broadway claimed him long ago, when it discovered that character portrayal was his metier. His visits since then have been as a member of touring companies. He is a good actor who made many warm friendships when he was a temporary resident of Pittsburgh.

Ethel Barrymore is at the midway point of her engagement in Sheridan's "The School for Scandal" in the Alvin, which is one of the dramatically artistic events of the season. It is fifth in the series of the Professional Players subscription season. Miss Barrymore is the third of her family to play Lady Teazle, the first having been her grandmother, Mrs. Drew, and the second, her mother, Georgie Drew Barrymore. This is her second time in the role, first having been in company with her uncle, the late John Drew.

A special morning performance of "Hans Brinker of the Silver Skates," will be given in the Nixon at 10:30 o'clock Saturday, by the Children's Theater of New York, under the sponsorship of the Women's City Club. DESIGNERS PRESENT NEWEST MODE IN SPRING MILLINERY

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Those who have ears attuned to styles and trends for the new season, know by now that "ears" mark the contour of the newest hats. This means, of course, that the snugly fitting little cap, really a skull-cap, has returned, but that we are decorating that rather monotonous line by upstanding quills and "ears" of the material. This is really just the natural process of evolution consequence on the success of the medieval beret and Fiorentine cap that were so liked this winter. Of course brims will come later, but somehow just now these pert little caps seem to express the blithe spirit of spring, for blithe we must be in our appearance no matter what happens. We owe it to ourselves and the world. Buy one or two good hats this spring rather than a host of inexpensive copies that don't mean a thing and see how your spirits and outlook are both materially improved. The pert millinery that has been created for the new season is just about the grandest antidote to that jaded feeling that overtakes us all at the end of the winter.

* * *

TWO DELIGHTFUL new hats are shown in today's drawing, each one characteristic of the new mode. At the left is one of the new "eared" models from Lanvin. It is bright red straw, very fine and supple in quality, easily manipulated into every type of odd shape. The snug little hat is worn very tip-tilted and the tipped idea is further accented by the positions of the two "ears," one placed low at the right side, the other further back and high at the left of the head. The LeMonnier model shown at the right consists of four plaques of brown straw woven round and round each like a separate plate and superimposed across the side-top and back of the head. The left side is more or less exposed and is ornamented by two short brown quills thrust through the straw.

"Heavens—would you ever dream she'd do a thing like that?"

"WHO would dream she'd wear her underthings a second day?" they whispered. "Everybody perspires a little—it's so easy to offend."

HOW CAN she—how can any girl—run the risk of "undie odor"? The consequences are too serious. Whispered comments, veiled hints. Social loneliness.

All day long underthings absorb perspiration acids and odors. But there is one sure way to know you're fresh and sweet. Lux removes these acids and odors completely, yet saves colors and fabrics.

Play safe—follow this dainty habit . . . Lux underthings (and stockings) after every wearing.

Avoid "undie odor"—

protect daintiness this 4-minute way:

Wash this 4-minute way: One tablespoon of Lux does one day's underthings—stockings, too. Squeeze lukewarm suds through fabric, rinse twice, shake out.

Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap—rubbing tends to streak and wear out silk.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali, which weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

LUX for underthings keeps them like new in spite of frequent washing

Do Men Favor Independent Girls or Opposite Type?

Do men like independent girls—girls who are "regular eggs," who hold their own tempers and kill their own snakes and are "never any bother?"

Or do they like the pouty, pretty-doll-baby, who's always throwing a fit about something or other and who keeps them running in dizzy circles?

What's your bet?

Neva would like to know what the boys, themselves, have to say. Haven't I an opinion of my own? Yes'm, I have plenty. But this time I want the male vote.

Neva, we'll add in preface, is a girl who tried to be a square-shooter with all the boy friends. And what did it buy her? Read on and see.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I guess you'll think I'm a nut, asking you a question like this, but it's got me. I don't know what to think. And it's getting serious, because I'm in love with the grandest boy, and well—he just can't seem to see me at all, although I know he likes me. He has said so.

"What kind of a girl do boys fall in love with, anyway?

"I am a thoroughly modern girl. I dance, swim, ride, cook and sew, and the boys all say I am good company. They come over to the house and tell me all their plans and ask my opinion about things, almost as if I were one of them.

AN INDEPENDENT GIRL

"Now this always pleased me: I like to have lots of people around, both boys and girls. I want, like any girl, to marry some day and have a home of my own, and I'd take good care of it, too. And I thought that, since the boys all like me the way they do, that the one I loved would love me and we would be happy. But there just seems to be something wrong somewhere, and I am beginning to wonder if—

"Well, you see when I was little I used to hear my dad and the other older men laugh at women who were 'helpless' and had to have some man to look out for them all the time. And I heard a great deal about girls not being 'nuisances,' and being good pals with the boys, and having brains enough to do something for themselves now and then. I sort of grew up on the idea of being that kind of a girl. And, moreover, I enjoyed being like that. I'm naturally independent and self-reliant.

"But, as I said, I'm beginning to wonder if maybe that isn't the wrong line. This boy I love tells me his troubles, just like the rest; but lately they've been troubles about another girl. She's a girl of the sort I've always scorned to be, a girl of the helpless, baby-doll sort, who is persnickety and hard to please, who gets in a temper sometimes and will hardly speak to him.

DESERTED BY OTHERS

"Instead of being disgusted with her, he is all fussed up about how to please her; and lately, to my horror, some of the other boys have been deserting me for her, too.

"Do boys really want girls to be like that? You would think that they would want one who tried to be fair and was always adaptable and a good friend; but from what I've seen lately it doesn't seem that they do.

"What's the answer? It is making me terribly unhappy.

"NEVA."

Well, what is the answer, big boy?

Which way do you prefer 'em—regular eggs or baby-dolls?

And if it's the baby-doll—why?

Is it because she's really a grand little kid—

Or is it because she's such a spineless, ornery, little dumbbell that she makes you look big and powerful and important by comparison?

And, although you know the other girl is finer stuff, do you avoid her because her independence doesn't give you a chance to strut your stuff?

Tell us, big boy. Come clean!

Fay King Inspired by Attractive Business Girl of Limited Means

By FAY KING

To see a woman exquisitely groomed, where time and cost have been no object, is little credit to her.

She is almost like a work of art, for each and all who have had a part to do in the perfection she represents deserve as much credit for the picture as she herself.

Costly clothes, priceless jewels, rare furs, all these must be taken into consideration as well as the frame in which she finds herself, which is the affair she attends.

It is the business girl, who, with limited means, and even more limited time, can be so attractive in the unflattering background of the office, the lunch counter and the traffic jams, that inspires my applause and unstinted praise.

Madge Gets to Work on Revision of Third Act

Dicky's suggestion that I "get busy" on the "right pert piece of work," was a relief to me in more than one respect. It closed the discussion of Edith Fairfax into which Dicky's inadvertent comment had thrust us, and it also told me that Dicky did not mean himself to write the Vickers speeches required by Mr. Veritzen in the revision of my third act.

Things were going better with me than I deserved. I said to myself humbly, as Dicky walked to the other side of the room and stretched himself out upon my couch with his hands behind his back.

"Everybody works but father," he intoned, his eyes bright with mischief. "Pretty soft, lying around and watching your wife toil. If you need anybody to split your infinitives, just sing out. I am the neatest little splitter in the profession and I can end a sentence with a preposition to match anybody in the business."

"I'll file your application," I told him with a little moue.

"All right, I'll listen for the telephone call telling me to report. Wake me if I snore."

He turned ostentatiously upon his side, tucked a pillow under his head, and I knew he was making a pretense of sleep as he had pretended to read the day before, that I might feel free to work. But even though I guessed that his attention was centered on my work and that he was waiting anxiously to see the result, the fact that he was not watching me made it easy for me to put everything else out of my mind and focus all my faculties upon the work before me.

It was the first time since I had learned from Philip Veritzen how objectionable were the Vickers speeches that I had had the opportunity to read them over. I began them with trepidation and finished them with shame-faced disgust. I did not wonder at Dicky's anger nor at Veritzen's disapproval. My subconscious mind certainly had played me a scurvy trick in permitting me to write such twaddle.

It was with a sense of danger skirted that I went on with the task of revision. Nothing that I could write consciously could be as bad as that which I had written, I told myself.

I was to learn, within the next hour, a lesson which many a writer had learned before me, that it is a hundred times easier to write anything the first time than it is to revise it.

I did not attempt in this first revision to do more than put down notes outlining the principal points of the speeches I was to put into the mouth of Vickers and the modifications of the answering speeches from the other characters, which had to be made in order to meet the changes.

I was not satisfied when I had finished. Neither was I totally discouraged. I felt as I imagined a gambler does when all his hoard is staked upon the turn of a single card, but with the feeling that I had done the very best I could. I called to Dicky:

"Wake up, dear! I'm sorry to disturb you, but I'm ready to dictate the stuff. I can write it myself if you're too tired."

He gave a most realistic imitation of a man suddenly awakened from slumber, saying "W-h-a-t?" sleepily, yawning and stretching his arms. Then he sat up briskly and came over to my desk.

"Your secretary amanuensis, or what have you, begs leave to report:

"1. That he is wide awake.

"2. That while he knows nothing of the touch system, he can 'pick corn' with any newspaper reporter going."

I smiled involuntarily, for I had heard of the typing with two forefingers, which is the method used by so many newspaper reporters.

"You needn't grin," Dicky said with mock severity, "the point of issue is that I'm ready for anything you may want to pull, so shoot the works!"

His genuine enthusiasm was infectious, and I found myself dictating to him with such ease and fluency that I stopped suddenly, remembering where such fluency had carried me when I had dictated this scene to Lillian.

"Dicky!" I said hesitantly, appealingly.

"Yes, m'love." Dicky's eyes twinkled.

"I'm going so fast that I'm afraid—"

"That the subconscious mind is working again?" he asked teasingly.

"Not exactly," I said, flushing, "but—will you help me watch the stuff and tell me if there is anything in the speeches that you don't like?"

"That's a big order," he said slyly, "but I'll try my best to fill it. However, I don't mind telling you, that so far you've been ringing the bell on every speech. If you can keep this up, old George Bernard would better look to his Shavian laurels."

Household Hints -:-

Allow 30 minutes to the pound for roasting a turkey. A 12-pound turkey will require six hours of roasting.

It is a good plan to dip brooms in very hot soapsuds once a week. This toughens the bristles and the brooms not only last longer but also sweep better than if they were kept perfectly dry.

Fragments of broken glass may be picked up by spreading a wet flannel over the particles and patting lightly. Afterwards burn the cloth.

It sometimes happens that eggs have been allowed to boil too long, rendering them hard and unpalatable. To soften them immerse in cold water for a few seconds.

To clean a clock, place a piece of cloth that has been soaked in paraffin in the bottom. The fumes go into the clock and clean it.

When making up feather pillows, rub a piece of beeswax over a hot flat iron and apply to the openings on the inner sides. This will prevent the feathers from working through.

Athlete's Foot, a Skin Disease, Really Ringworm

I am glad the authorities are seeking to simplify the terms used in medicine. There are too many which convey little meaning to the public certainly. Among such is "Dermatomycosis Trichophtina." These are indeed large and difficult words to pronounce.

Dr. Copeland

This term means "ringworm," an infectious disease of the skin. The infection is caused by a parasite or fungus, called the "trichophyton fungus."

Recently there have been many articles about the so-called "athlete's foot." This affliction is really ringworm. It is merely a form of that disease involving the feet. The more familiar ringworm is most frequently seen on the scalp and face.

Ringworm of the body begins as a flat, reddish spot. This spreads, clearing up in the center, resulting in a ringed appearance. The ring represents the active sign of the disease.

The ring of inflammation is usually elevated, red and scaly. It has a sharp outer border and an inner border which fades toward the center. The area within the ring is pink, or it may be the usual color of the skin.

After reaching its full size, the ringworm may remain stationary. Within a few days or weeks it disappears entirely, only to reappear elsewhere on the body.

Ringworm may occur anywhere on the body, but it is most commonly found on the scalp, face, neck, hands and forearms. Less frequently it affects the soles of the feet, or the palms of the hands. It is called athlete's foot when the infection involves the soles of the feet and the skin between the toes.

The treatment for the disease depends upon the use of a solution which will destroy the parasite. If the disease is on the surface of the skin, this destruction is accomplished without any difficulty. When it is more deep-seated, the treatment is more difficult.

In treating the simple lesions of ringworm, it is best to clean the surfaces first by scrubbing with green soap. Where there is marked inflammation, this should be dealt with first, and as the irritation subsides the ringworm itself can be gone after more energetically. In such cases the usual applications of lotions, like calamine lotion or boric acid lotion, or of any mild ointment, like zinc oxide, are used.

There is a variety of antiseptics used for the destruction of ringworm. They should never be used without the supervision of a physician. Many cases of ringworm are exceedingly difficult to cure and require X-ray treatment. This can only be decided upon by the physician.

Hygienic measures are important in the prevention and spread of this disease, since it is highly contagious. Athlete's foot, which is becoming more and more common, is usually spread in swimming pools, gymnasiums and other places where individuals walk about barefooted and come in contact with the germ. It is met frequently in mild climates, where most of the children run about barefooted.

Attention to hygienic measures in public swimming pools and gymnasiums is lessening the danger of infection.

Wedding Processional

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am being married in the afternoon, soon. I am having six ushers, a maid of honor, a matron of honor, and one bridesmaid. I would appreciate it if you could advise me what position in the processional the latter three take. A. P.

First, in the processional, come the ushers, walking together, two by two, the shortest leading. Next, would come the bridesmaid, walking alone. (It is, however, the custom to have an even number of bridesmaids, so that they may walk two by two, and perhaps you would like to invite another bridesmaid, so that two could walk together, after the ushers. Or if you wish, you may call the maid of honor a bridesmaid, and have her walk with the other bridesmaid.) Next comes either the maid of honor or the matron of honor, according to which you wish to give the greater honor. If, for instance, the maid of honor is nearer to you by relationship or friendship, you would have her walk just before you and your father in the processional. This is the greatest place of honor. But, if, as I suggest, you nominate your maid of honor a bridesmaid, then she would walk with the other bridesmaid, and the matron of honor would walk alone, before you and your father, who come last in the processional. Or, if you do not wish to do this, you may have each walk alone, or you may have the maid of honor and the matron of honor walk together, before you.

The Story of John N. Garner

By George Rothwell Brown

CHAPTER IV.

John N. Garner never in his life left anything to chance.

His mind is methodical. He is what is known as "long headed." Careful and prudent, when he has determined upon a plan of action he anticipates every possibility, and prepares himself in advance to be ready for anything that might occur.

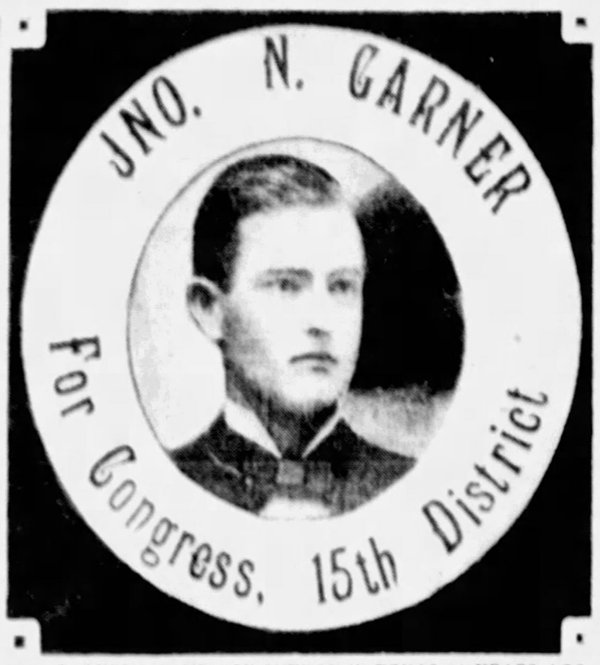
When he had completed the redistricting of the state of Texas in such a way as to create a new Congressional district containing the county in which he lived, and had submitted his report as chairman of the redistricting committee, he did not leave his political fate to the uncertainties of accident.

He had come to a crisis in his life. If he should lose the opportunity to create a Congressional district for himself he realized that he had nothing much to look forward to politically but a few more years in the Legislature.

Texas had a way of standing by her Representatives at Washington. She kept them in office for many years. Garner knew he had no hope of defeating one of them.

He had not attempted to deceive the Legislature. He made no secret of the fact that he had deliberately looked out for himself. On what the House should do his future depended.

When the House adjourned, without taking action on the redistricting bill, he spent what was, perhaps, the most active night of his life, a night of practical politics, doubtless not unmixed with a little dash of the great national game of America. A good deal of poker was played in Texas, in those days, and members of the Legislature could always be found in small, congenial groups. John Garner spent the night visiting around.



MR. GARNER'S CAMPAIGN BUTTON IN TEXAS 30 YEARS AGO

Nothing to Chance

There were 131 members of the lower branch of the Texas Legislature at that time. When morning came, and the House convened, young Garner had 81 of them pledged to him, and signed on the dotted line. His redistricting report was adopted. In his usual cool and methodical way he had left nothing to chance.

The characteristic Garner attributes, philosophy, principle, honesty, candor and friendliness, had got him farther than deceit and subterfuge could ever carry any man.

He had won the first big battle of his life, and he had won it cleanly.

A great many men have been elected to the American House of Representatives since 1789, but very few of them have had to create a Congressional district for themselves in order to be able to run for Congress.

There were many other ambitious men in that Legislature, some of whom, like Garner, also wanted to go to Congress, and a few of them later on did so, but Garner was the only one of them who succeeded in doing it at the first election under the new redistricting of the state. In his own way John N. Garner is as great a natural-born vote-getter as was Theodore Roosevelt. He has an instinct for doing just the right thing, politically, and doing it at the right time. He has probably never committed a political blunder.

Out for Congress

Having succeeded in creating a new congressional district, the way to Washington lay open to him. Now that he had a district of his own, all he had to do was to win the Democratic nomination, and get elected. He must first rid himself of all opposition within his own party, and then defeat his Republican opponent.

He set about this task with characteristic energy and promptness. No grass grew beneath his feet as he gathered his wife and baby together in Austin and started hotfoot back to the little five-room cottage in Uvalde. Back to the mesquite and chapparal!

A day or two later the Pearsall News contained the following item, copied from the yellowing pages of that interesting journal:

"Hon. Jno. H. Garner, of Uvalde, announces for Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic party of this 15th district. Mr. Garner is now representing us in the State Legislature, and is in favor for Congress with Frio County's Democratic Ex-Committee. If he is nominated he will make a strong fight for the seat in Congress."

Other Candidates

Garner was not the only man in the new Fifteenth Texas district who had his heart set on going to Congress. There were several others. J. B. Dibrell, of Sequin, had been a State Senator for several years, and was recognized as being one of the strongest Democrats in the new district, where he had lived all his life. He belonged to a prominent and influential family. Garner had come from another part of the state only a short time before, was less well known, and was regarded by many as being too young.

Dibrell announced his candidacy in the same edition of the Pearsall News which contained the hardly startling information that the ambitious young county judge from Uvalde had thrown his sombrero into the Congressional ring.

At the beginning everybody supposed that the talented Dibrell, an experienced campaigner, would win the nomination. Jim Wells, and Tom Wheeler, of Arkansas Pass, also had much support, and were urged to get into the race, but the contest speedily narrowed down to a fight between Garner and Dibrell, with the outlook none too rosy for the man who had invented the idea of creating the Fifteenth Texas district.

Certainly, John N. Garner had his work cut out for him.

FIGHT TROLLEY SUSPENSIONS

Abandonment of the West Penn Railways Company's McKeesport-Versailles line, on account of "insufficient revenue to warrant replacement of tracks," was protested today at a hearing before Public Service Commissioner W. E. Best by more than 100 residents of Versailles and McKeesport.

Opposition was based on the fact that many workmen and students of Versailles work and attend high school in McKeesport.

Rochester and Ambridge residents and the State Highway Department opposed the petition of the Beaver Valley Traction Company to discontinue service between Ambridge and Rochester, transportation to be furnished by the Beaver Valley Motor Coach Company.

There was no protest to the discontinuance request of the Latrobe-Derry car line of the Westmoreland County Railways Company.

The $800,000 estate of John W. Lloyd, president of the Woods-Lloyd Company, who died February 8, is left to his grandchildren, with a life interest for the widow, Eleanor S. Lloyd, and his three children.

Mrs. Lloyd receives the personal property and an income of $18,000 for life. Three children, Sarah Verner Latshaw, Elizabeth Lloyd Finnessy and Alexander Verner Lloyd, share the balance of the income and receive the entire income after the wife's death. Upon their death the estate goes to the grandchildren.

Transit Department Asks $5,000 Engineer

The city Treasury Department has asked Council for authority to employ a directing engineer at $5,000 a year and a junior assistant at $1,800. The department, whose salary budget was cut about $35,000 for 1932, now employs only a stenographer at $1,500.

Safety Director James M. Clark asked for authority to employ a laborer at $4.40 a day for the municipal garage and repair shop.

'LIZ' CLEARED BY JURY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Aristophanes, who was on trial for writing an "indecent performance," stood acquitted today by a jury of 11 women and a man.

Because of Aristophanes' lively play, "Lysistrata," or "A love embargo as a method of halting war," the police "purity squad" had arrested 56 persons, including Nance O'Neil, the actress.

After deliberating two hours the jury acquitted all defendants—including the smiling ghost of Jolly old Aristophanes.

Stirring moments livened the last court session when Daniel Reed, the actor who protrayed the part of the president of the senate, paraded before the jury and spectators, clad only in the flaming flannel shorts he had worn in the play.

Reed's performance was preceded by a Grecian and Spartan style show in which shapely Hollywood actresses displayed the somewhat light costumes they had worn in "Lysistrata."

GEORGE MOORE HALE AT 80

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—George Moore, outstanding figure among Irish literary men of the older generation, celebrated his eightieth birthday today.

In spite of his advanced age, the author of "Esther Waters," "Evelyn Innes" and other epics is still physically and mentally vigorous. Only yesterday he attended the opening of an art exhibition here and had an extended chat with the Prince of Wales.

He expressed himself characteristically today as disgusted with the "trend of this mechanized age." He said:

"We are heading for chaos, but since Providence has decreed few men shall live more than 80 years I hope to be removed in good time."

Two Youths Fined In Numbers Sale

They were fined $100 each by Magistrate Ray Schneider.

HERE'S THAT ENGLISH METHOD OF QUICK FAT REDUCTION

So Many Overweight People Are Asking About

A Discovery Recently Brought Here from England That Enables the Average Fat Person to Lose 6 or More Pounds Weekly . . . Without Starvation or One Extra Step of Exercise

It seems that the British have found a way to rip off excess fat that's the dream of every too-fat person. That is, to rip it off without starving, without tiring exercise.

Under an extraordinarily simple and pleasant regimen discovered there, the average fat person loses as much as six to ten pounds weekly; yet suffers no pangs of hunger, no aching muscles, no weakness or depression. Returning travelers from Europe talked so much about it, that it has now been brought to this country. Anyone can follow it; so if you want to get thin, here's your chance.

Eat, Sleep, Drink and Grow Thin, Doing Only This

All the method involves is a glass of water before breakfast—to clear the intestines and tone the system—and a few minor changes in your diet.

Here is what you do: Tear this article out and save it, so you won't forget.

Before Breakfast: Drink an ordinary tumbler full of cool water to, which you've added a teaspoon of effervescent salt. (Get the brand named "Andrews" at any drug store.) This to eliminate the usual curse of fat people: accumulated poisons and bloat. Also to cut the moisture weight of your body—sometimes as much as three pounds in one day.

At Meals: Cut out ONLY fat meats. Eat your usual quantity of lean meats and ADD a double-supply of green vegetables. . . spinach, cabbage, fresh peas, lettuce, etc. Then for dessert, shift from pastry and pies to FRESH FRUIT. The more you eat of these the better. They're super-nourishing vitamin foods.

Drink, too, if you like them, sauerkraut juice, tomato juice or orange juice "cocktails" before lunch and supper. Eat fresh fruit, too, before bed if you like to eat before retiring.

That's all you do. No wonder England and all of Europe is cheering this discovery. You lose weight day by day, week by week . . . usually from six or seven pounds weekly to even as much as ten pounds, and feel amazingly more alert and active while you are. Doctors of world knowledge widely endorse this way. The salt tones and clears the system. The vitamin foods take the place of those that build weight and fat, and thus fat goes like magic.

Embark on the Great Adventure of getting thin today. Ask your doctor about this if you wish to be doubly sure this is the simplest, safest way to lose embarrassing bulk. You can get Andrews Effervescent Salt at any drug store for a few cents.

HOOVER BUDGET SLASHED FOR FIFTH TIME

House Committee Lops 22 Millions From Bill for Postoffice and Treasury

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Presidential budget estimates today were slashed for the fifth time in a major supply bill by the House Appropriations Committee when it reported the billion dollar Postoffice-Treasury measure.

The bill carries $1,059,898,563 to run the departments next year, which is $22,677,342 under budget estimates and $44,488,327 under last year.

Actually, operation of the two departments will cost the government $73,000,000 more next year than last.

EXCEEDS TWO BILLIONS

The apparent paradox is explained because the committee treats separately the permanent indefinite and annual appropriations. These total more than last year chiefly because of increased interest charges on the public debt and the sinking fund.

With the permanent appropriations, the total outlay for the two departments is brought beyond two billion dollars.

The committee provided for speeding the public building program by voting $133,406,930, which is $25,000,000 above last year, but still $12,000,000 under budget recommendations.

It provided for continuation of ocean mail subsidies, and voted $2,000,000 more than last year. The $19,000,000 fund for air mail contracts is a million under last year, but is expected to provide for the same service, and possibly some extensions because of anticipated reduction in contract rates.

EXPENSES REDUCED

The expenses of the postoffice, the committee said, would be reduced more than $37,000,000 due to lack of business.

Slashes in various bureaus were made all along the line, including the outlay for enforcement of the anti-narcotics act and the secret service.

Abolition of 29 political offices in the Customs Bureau was recommended. These include posts of appraiser, controller or surveyor in New York, Boston, San Francisco, Baltimore, Chicago, Buffalo, Detroit, Tampa, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Portland, Me., Pittsburgh, Portland, Ore., and Philadelphia.

The girl who is selected as the winner will be given an opportunity to appear in Sun-Telegraph features to be broadcasted over WCAE.

These public auditions will take place at the Alvin Theater beginning next Monday night and continue throughout the week, including Saturday afternoon. The candidates will be given a friendly welcome by all of the stars of WCAE, including the WCAE orchestra, in a complete program of mirth and melody. The public will be admitted, giving everyone an opportunity to see in person the popular stars they so often hear and enjoy on the air. There will be a nominal admission charge for others than the candidates in the "sweetest voice" test.

Special nights have been assigned for each district in and around Pittsburgh. Notifications to the girls in the test telling them which night they are to appear for an audition will go in the mails tomorrow.

AGES, SCHOOLS TO BE MARKED ON ESSAYS

Contestants Should Give Details to Facilitate Correct Classification

Ages—important in the classification of essays on George Washington's Farewell Address—must be marked clearly by persons who send entries to the contest editor of the Sun-Telegraph.

And the school affiliations as well as name and address must be recorded when the essays are written by school pupils.

These are two of the rules most neglected by writers who have sent in their work so far. The essay contest, based on George Washington's Farewell Address, is continuing in and out of schools.

It's not too late to compete, as the test continues until April 4. Get a copy of the Farewell Address, study it, and note down your impressions. Anyone under 21 can qualify.

The classifications and prizes:

The William Randolph Hearst gold cup and $100 for the best essay, not to exceed 100 words in length, in any class by any person up to the age of 21 years.

For the best essay, not to exceed 1,000 words in length, by any person between the ages of 16 and 21, in or out of school, the Hearst gold medal; for second, silver medal, and third, bronze medal.

For the best essay, not to exceed 500 words in length, by any child in any high school, gold medal for first, silver for second and bronze for third.

For the best essay, not to exceed 400 words in length, by any child in any junior high school, a gold medal; for second, a silver medal, and for third, a bronze medal.

For the best essay, not to exceed 400 words in length, by any child in the grammar grades, a gold medal, with silver medal for second and bronze medal for third.

In each of the classes 2, 3, 4 and 5 there will be awarded 100 diplomas for honorable mention for the 100 best essays produced in each class after the first, second and third prizes have been awarded.

2 MEN PAROLED IN AUTO DEATHS

Two motorists, who pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter, were paroled by Judge W. Heber Dithrich today.

John Gall, 22, of 311 Forward avenue, was paroled for one year in the death of Mrs. Margaret M. Carlton, 60, a widow, of 4116 Lydia street. His automobile struck her at Greenfield avenue and Lydia street.

West Liberty Raid Yields Pool Tickets

County detectives, in response, they said, to complaints of neighbors, today raided a restaurant of James Vealiqua, West Liberty and Capital avenues, and reported confiscating lottery tickets and punchboards. Safety Glass Foils Holdup Of Bank

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Bullet-proof glass thwarted the robbery of the Orland State Bank in suburban Orland Park today.

Two robbers entered the bank waving pistols and shouting, "Stick 'em up."

But George Gee, the cashier, felt secure behind the glass of his case and reached for his own weapon. The robbers fired two shots without effect and then ran to their car.

Gee did not fire, but witnesses said one of the fugitives seemed wounded, perhaps by his companion's shot.

FIRST CHATHAM UNIT RENTED

Signs bearing the word "Rented" yesterday appeared on every house in the first unit of the 125 buildings of Chatham Village, being built by the Buhl Foundation on Mt. Washington. Officials of the Chatham Realty Company announced that in four weeks 53,000 persons have visited the village.

In a statement issued by Charles F. Lewis, director, he said:

"The Chatham Village management regrets that it has been unable to provide homes for all who made application. This public approval of the ideals of the village, in the face of adverse economic conditions, provides full evidence of the soundness of its plan. Because Chatham Village is intended as a demonstration, with the hope that it may be widely copied and improved upon by large commercial operators, this initial success is doubly gratifying.

"Pittsburghers have been quick to see the advantages of better living in the planned large-scale operation, and the benefits of social security that go with its responsible management as a long-term investment and not a get-rich-quick speculation."

CITY, BOROUGHS IN SAFETY TEST

Pittsburgh and seven nearby municipalities have enlisted in the National City Traffic Safety Contest for 1932, it was announced by the Pittsburgh Motor Club today. Dormont, Wilkinsburg, Munhall, Ambridge, McDonald, Vandergrift, Apollo and Pittsburgh will participate in an attempt to better the 1931 automobile accident record in Allegheny County.

Officers of the Motor Club are urging city councils to co-operate in inducing all cities and boroughs in the county to join the contest. Communities will be graded largely on their motor vehicle fatality rates during the year. Trophies will be awarded in each population group.

A total of 357 cities have enrolled in the nation-wide contest. Each must report its traffic accidents, carry on an educational program, strengthen its traffic engineering and law enforcement machinery and organize for a continuous traffic accident prevention effort.

May Settle Stadtfeld Status Next Week

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

The status of Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, as a candidate for election, probably will be settled next weekend in a Philadelphia conference. Participants will be Philadelphia leaders, Republican State Chairman Edward Martin, William D. Mansfield, Allegheny County chairman; E. R. Crawford, McKeesport industrialist, and Walter Bonitz, Pittsburgher active in party affairs and for some time energetic in an effort to have Judge Stadtfeld backed by the easterners.

This conference was arranged yesterday while Martin was in Pittsburgh. It is expected to result in a harmony arrangement whereby Philadelphia and the state organization will back Stadtfeld, the Allegheny County regulars swinging behind the remainder of the slate, picked in Philadelphia some weeks ago.

This would mean aid for Judge Robert Gawthrop and former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James as candidates for the Superior Court, Senator Frank Baldwin for Auditor General, Charles A. Waters for State Treasurer, James J. Davis for re-election to the Senate, and the slate for delegates-at-large, which probably will be slightly revised to include Crawford.

* * *

Parker Appointment Opens Way to Harmony

The way to harmony was opened yesterday when Gov. Pinchot, after promoting Judge William B. Linn to the Supreme Court, appointed Judge William M. Parker, of Venango County, to the Superior Court. That leaves three Superior Court places to be filled at this year's election.

It means Philadelphia can still support Gawthrop and James, as originally intended, and adopt Stadtfeld in deference to Allegheny County. The result would be to leave Judge Parker to shift for himself, except for what assistance he could get from the Governor, but it is indicated that both Gen. Martin and Philadelphia are more interested in satisfying Allegheny than Venango.

There have been hard words between East and West on the surface, but behind the scenes conciliators have been at work for some time, and there was even hope that something beneficial could be worked out in behalf of Judge Stadtfeld before the Governor paved the way—probably it was unintentional—to peace yesterday.

Judge Parker, named two months before the primary, will not have even the claim to Superior Court service which has been advanced in behalf of Stadtfeld, and he could be shoved aside on that score, without causing much commotion. The only valid claim he might have would be an exceptional ability, which really has been the underlying argument advanced on behalf of Stadtfeld.

* * *

Mansfield Expected To Meet Gov. Pinchot

Mansfield, before the Philadelphia conference, is expected to meet Gov. Pinchot in Harrisburg. It is assumed that the Governor will sound the county chairman on the possibilities of a ticket in opposition to the slate. He will feel free to make this proposal to Mansfield where he would not to a county chairman of the old-guard type, because of the relation between the Governor and Mansfield during the latter's legislative service.

The prediction is ventured that Mansfield will not be able to give the Governor much comfort toward a fight. I doubt if he wants a fight at this stage of the proceedings. Allegheny County has been interested, first and foremost, in the success of Stadtfeld, and suggestion that the Auditor General should come from this county was never a sticking point. Sectionalism is of little moment in this post.

Both the Governor and the County Chairman will find the rank and file of the party, regular and independent, little disposed to march in unified revolt against the slate this April. There may be some independent forays, some scattered guerrilla fighting.

* * *

State-Wide Contest Cannot Be Arranged

Candidly, any opposition ticket would be concerned more with delegates to the national convention and the selection of state committeemen than with a fight on individuals on the state slate. In isolated districts there will be delegate fights, but a state-wide contest cannot be arranged, modeled on the Pinchot principles, and the same goes for committeemen.

Pinchot may have some friendly delegates at Chicago, he will have many committeemen at Philadelphia at the next meeting, but they will be secured through separated endeavors, and not a wide-spread crusade.

The hundreds of candidates for the Legislature, most of them Independents, are too busy fighting their own battles, too far apart in their own ambitions, to give any hope that cohesion could be secured for the head of any ticket of revolt. They will be too actively engaged in rebelling among themselves to waste any time on another fellow's crusading.

Mark Shields will interview Senator James J. Coyne over WCAE at 6:02 this evening.

FIREMEN FIGHT SMOKE, FUMES DOWNTOWN

Fourth Ave. Blaze Delays Traffic 3 Hours; 4 Men Overcome, Hose Hurts One

Two firemen overcome by sulphur dioxide fumes and smoke while fighting a two-alarm blaze last night in the basement of the Shannon Building, 326-28 Fourth avenue, were in Mercy Hospital today. The fire caused damage estimated at $5,000, and blocked traffic for three hours.

In the hospital are Capt. Sol Kramer, 36, of 1111 Vickroy street, and Hoseman Joseph Singer, 39, of 1204 Fifth avenue, both of No. 3 Engine Company.

ONE HURT BY NOZZLE

Firemen H. S. Smith and Hugh Mullen, both of No. 3 company, overcome by smoke and fumes, were treated by city physicians, as was Arthur H. Robinson, of No. 1 company, who suffered head bruises when a nozzle of a hose fell from an upper floor of the six-story building.

Firemen donned gas masks and battled the blaze three hours. Smoke filled the structure and the adjoining Keystone Building. Fifteen women cleaners in the latter building were routed by smoke.

FUMES RELEASED

Sulphur dioxide escaped from the refrigerating system in the basement, firemen said. Holes were chopped through the first floor, occupied by Bonini Brothers' restaurant. The blaze was confined to the basement.

The second floor was occupied by the J. D. Reilly Real Estate Company and the third floor by L. C. Rossen Company, hat cleaners.

PROBE SOHO ST. BLAZE

Detectives of the bomb and arson squad today were to investigate a fire which damaged the two-story frame home of Edward Henderson, 345 Soho street.

The rear part of the dwelling, police said, apparently had been saturated with gasoline and a container was reported found nearby.

Damage was estimated at $50.

Ambridge Building Damaged by Fire

Flames which threatened destruction of the two-story brick building of the Workingmen's Beneficial Union, 332 Merchant street, Ambridge, were fought by firemen for several hours early today before being subdued. Damage was estimated at $4,000.

Downtown Rail Span Damaged by Fire

Sparks from a locomotive were blamed for a fire that damaged railroad ties on the Wabash Railroad Bridge, over Liberty avenue, early today. A still alarm brought downtown firemen to the scene. Damage was estimated at $50.

All the Election Needs Is Just One Good Slogan

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

In this age of labels and trademarks we are surprised that no presidential candidate has yet copyrighted a good slogan.

Looking through loose-leaf history we discover that every campaign has been won by a battle-cry.

We concede the Democrats have their victory with their dinners, while the Republicans insist on it with all three meals.

But elections without a rallying whoop are like stud poker without a hole card.

So we're giving the boys their pick of a few. Beer for the workingman ain't much good because the workingman can get that anywhere.

The full dinner pail is also out. Cafeteria service is too good.

We might advocate a hot dog stand on every corner and mustard with every vote.

The Army and Navy forever is also blooey unless you have one of Currier and Ives' old prints as proof.

Come to think of it there isn't a good slogan in a carload. But we think things will pick up when we see the first London newsreels of Andy Mellon in flesh-colored stockings.

WOMAN SAVES CHILD IN FIRE

From their smoke-filled home, at 3584 Evergreen road, North Side, today Mrs. John Miller, 58, dazed, rescued her 5-year-old granddaughter and carried her over two porch roofs to safety.

Her husband, a huckster, was in the kitchen when he discovered the 2½-story house rapidly filling with smoke, which prevented him from rushing to his wife's bedroom.

Mrs. Miller heard his shout, warned a roomer, William Culp, 35, then almost suffocated, crawled to the porch window with the baby, June Miller, and stepped over two porches to a neighbor's. Culp slid down a rear porch to safety.

A bystander, F. J. Letsche, 50, of East street, rushed into the house and recovered $200 and insurance papers.

Firemen estimated damage at $4,000.

Memorials Voted For Armstrong, Babcock

Hereafter when any memorial tables are placed on county projects, like bridges and tunnels, the names of five county commissioners will be inscribed upon them. At the meeting yesterday County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern made a motion that the names of Joseph G. Armstrong, E. V. Babcock and the three incumbent commissioners be put on memorial plaques placed on any yet to be completed projects under the 1924 and 1928 issues. The title of chairman is to be eliminated. The motion was unanimously adopted.

Lincoln Board Asks Light Installation

The Lincoln District Board of Trade has asked City Council for installation of electric street lights on Riverhill street, Twelfth Ward.

CITY TO FIGHT RICKETS

As a means of combatting rickets among children, especially those in the congested areas, free cod liver oil will be distributed by the Bureau of Child Welfare at its 15 infant welfare clinics, according to announcement by Dr. C. B. Maits, health director.

Use of cod liver oil during the winter months is a substitute for sunshine and is regarded as a preventive of rickets, a health department pamphlet points out. About 15,000 pints will be distributed this year, according to estimates by Dr. H. J. Benz, superintendent of the Child Welfare Bureau.

Researches of the last 15 years have virtually established that rickets, resulting in bow legs and other deformities, is a climatic disease, according to the health department.

ALLIED BOARDS TO KEEP UP RATE FIGHT

Utility Offer to Council Awaited; Women Voters Discuss Unfair Charges

If the conference of City Council and utility representatives does not prove satisfactory the fight for fair reductions of utility rates will be continued by the Allied Boards of Trade, Harry Bastow, president of the body, said last night at a meeting of the Arsenal Board of Trade, Forty-fifth stret.

Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, fair utility rate champion, and State Senator Frank J. Harris will address the monthly meeting of the Allied Boards tonight in the Congress of Women's Clubs, Penn avenue.

OFFER AWAITED

City Council tomorrow morning will hear President Frank R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, outline what, if any proposal for voluntary reductions in rates may be expected. The conference resulted from a resolution presented last week by Councilman W. Y. English.

Regardless of possible local reductions, additional rallies are being planned to further the state fight. Scott Township consumers will meet tomorrow night under auspices of the Scott Township Civic League in Falcon Hall, Glendale. Chairman O. W. Heselbarth, Dr. Joseph G. Steedle and Harry Hohlwend, of the association's Forty-fifth Senatorial District committee, are scheduled speakers.

Domestic consumers of public utilities will meet with the Thirty-second Ward Unit, League of Women Voters, at 8 o'clock tonight in the Overbrook Municipal Building to discuss excessive rates for electricity, gas and water.

BASTOW, SHOUP TO SPEAK

The state-wide fight of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association will be outlined. Speakers will include Bastow, and C. V. Shoup, secretary of the Allied Boards of Trade, active in organizing support for the association. Miss M. C. Harrigan, chairman of the women's league unit, will preside and the meeting will be open to all interested consumers.

Council has been asked in a letter from the North Side Board of Trade to join other municipalities in the state as official member of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association.

Slain Girl

MISS ELIZABETH SAUNDERS

SLAYING ENDS PLEASURE HUNT

Elizabeth Saunders, the 19-year-old blonde who ran away from her home in Ambridge to "have a good time," was taken back today to be buried.

Her hair was freshly marceled, but her body was torn with the bullets which rang out in her apartment at 5007 Penn avenue when a man who said he found out she wasn't a "square shooter" shot her, then killed himself.

He was Dan W. Bowser, 41, who roomed in Mrs. Edna Podesto's home at 431 Elm road, Ambridge. Bowser left this note about Elizabeth:

"I kept her when she was down and out. She said she was a square shooter. She lied. I gave her all and she wouldn't go straight; so she is going to pay."

Elizabeth's mother, Mrs. Alex Granovich, told deputy coroners her daughter, unruly, had left home months ago after a quarrel over staying out late.

Bowser was said to have had an estranged wife in Beaver Falls.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 24.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

There are two things I think you will find out about this war in China. One is that it is rather over-"press agented." All these writers were in Manchuria when I was and I know they, naturally, being writers, had to kinder exaggerate it all to keep it readable. So they, naturally, are putting it on pretty thick in Shanghai. The other thing is you always want to look at your date line and see if the dispatch is headed Shanghai or Tokio. Then whichever one it is discount it at least 50 per cent in favor of the other side. For both places have their government censorships and you can't send anything out that is not colored in their favor.

NAMES FORGED, MANY TESTIFY IN VOTE CASE

Witnesses on Poll List Deny Using Receipts; 5 Issued To Store Declared False

A long parade of witnesses, branding signatures on tax receipt orders as fraudulent, crossed the stand today as the Second Ward election conspiracy case continued in Criminal Court.

This afternoon Edward J. Kenna, subordinate assessor, was one the stand for 45 minutes detailing the procedure in making assessments. He said in the residential section, a house-to-house canvass was made, but that names were entered from hotels and rooming houses on lists sent in.

It was said that the state intended to show that 75 per cent of names sent in on hotel stationery were not permanent guests.

Of the more than a dozen to testify this morning, the most important was Mike Zuk, a storekeeper at 1237 Penn avenue.

He was shown five orders, obtained by P. J. O'Malley, Second Ward Republican chairman, according to the prosecution. None of the five names, Zuk said, were those of persons living at his address.

WOMEN TESTIFY

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk said that he intended to produce documentary evidence, probably this afternoon, to show that all five of the persons—or persons purporting to be them—registered and voted in the September election on tax receipts obtained through these orders.

A tax receipt issued to Mrs. Jane Lentz, of Dormont, daughter of Jail Warden McNeil, one of a number issued on order to O'Malley, was never received by her, Mrs. Lentz testified. Neither had she signed the order, she testified.

Mrs. Martha Buss, of 1837 Arcena street, said she never signed a tax order and did not register or vote. Prosecutor Clunk called the jury's attention to the fact that the receipt issued in Mrs. Buss' name had been changed to read Sallie Brannon.

GAVE VERBAL ORDER

Mrs. L. M. Giles, of Mulberry way, said she had verbally given an order for a tax receipt, but had not signed one. Her husband, she said, had signed an order in Michael McMackin's home.

Involved in the case with O'Malley, are James Lardo, member of the Registration Board; Michael McMackin, William Gallagher and Patrick D. Colangelo. They are accused of conspiracy. The case is being heard by Visiting Judge C. M. Culver, of Bradford County.

The resolutions ask County Commissioners to provide space on the primary ballot for the two questions.

M'KEES ROCKS COUNCIL SPLIT ON TAXES

Economy Arguments Mark Budget Committee Session; Cut in Millage Sought

McKees Rocks residents today awaited full details of last night's meeting of the finance committee of the borough Council, held behind closed doors to take up the 1932 budget, and adjourned apparently without result.

Committee members said after the meeting that no agreement on the millage was reached because of lengthy arguments over proposals that the payroll and the garbage contract be cut so taxes could be reduced from 18 to 15 mills.

D. J. Buckley, a member of the committee, who said he presented a budget that would have made possible the desired millage reduction, was involved in one of the arguments. He said:

"It is a shame that there are a few councilmen present who will not accede to the proposed tax reduction. I feel that the tax cut is possible, and I intend to present my proposal at a meeting of the entire Council."

The meeting adjourned it was reported, when it became apparent that because of the deadlock over the millage no agreement could be reached, but the committee voted to hold a special meeting of Council on the tax question.

During an argument over the garbage contract it was said one Councilman offered to take the contract for $9,000. The present contract is for $24,000.

3 BOYS BEATEN, PRINCIPAL HELD

YORK, Pa., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Roland J. Heathcote, principal of the Shrewsbury Schools, was held for the grand jury last night on charges of beating three boys, whom he caught watching a high school play rehearsal through a window.

Edward Breitschwerdt, 10, sobbed as he told how Heathcote held him around the neck and directed James Rehmeyer, 13, to beat him with a paddle.

William Frey, 12, said he stuffed a pair of gloves in his trousers when his turn came, but that Heathcote found them and ordered a more severe whipping. Mrs. Frey testified his spine was injured.

John Breitschwerdt, 13, is the third boy Heathcote is alleged to have beaten.

The paddle Rehmeyer wielded was introduced in evidence. It was 3½ feet long, 2½ inches wide and nearly an inch thick.

Rochester Truck, Auto Crash Hurts 2

John W. Blacksmith of R. D. No. 3, Bellevue, and Pat Grogan, of the North Side, were injured last night when their truck crashed with an automobile in Eighth street, Rochester, and caught fire, according to a police report. The injured were taken to the Rochester General Hospital.

The occupants of the passenger car fled after the accident, police reported.

Winners of Two Art Prizes Exhibit 60 Paintings Here

MISS LOUISE PERSHING, MRS. RACHEL MCLELLAND SUTTON
HANGING PAINTINGS, DRAWINGS FOR THEIR JOINT EXHIBIT

Pittsburgh Scenes Notable in Display

By PENELOPE REDD

Sixty paintings by Louise Pershing and Rachel McClelland Sutton are on view every afternoon this week at the studio of the Cordova Club, Forbes street at Craig.

Mrs. Sutton, who won the Art Society prize at the current Associated Artists' annual show now on exhibition at Carnegie Institute, shows a number of Pittsburgh subjects.

Penelope Redd

She sees Pittsburgh, not as a city of flaming nocturnes, but as a woman stating the facts of tired houses clinging to precipitous wintry hillsides. Her terse draughtsmanship states a pictorial idiom germane to the Pittsburgh scene. Her Pittsburgh studies are of the very fiber of this inexorable city.

Landscapes of New England and the Adirondacks manifest her desire to paint ever and always. This group is refreshing in color and well composed.

Louise Pershing, Mrs. Sutton's co-exhibitor, won the third prize at the local artists' show with the portrait of an old man.

As a matter of record, Miss Pershing detached herself last year with her prize-winning portrait of an old lady, "Mrs. Little." This year Mrs. Little returns to Miss Pershing's Cordova Club show, after seeing the larger world in exhibitions at the Art Institute of Chicago and elsewhere.

Miss Pershing might easily acquire a reputation as first painter to mature ladies. She has an extraordinary power to communicate the authentic beauty of experience survived. "Mrs. Ward," "Mrs. Harris" and "Mrs. W. H. Crump" are a tribute to the wisdom of years, as against sentimentalized portraits.

Miss Pershing also paints younger persons as in "Mona Lisa" and the fine "Virginia" in sapphire gown.

During the past summer, Miss Pershing ventured into the hills north of the city. Two studies of the Bates Farm offer a contrast informing to the layman. One is a vivid descriptive rendering of farm buildings with hills surroundins. In the other, the same subject is stylized in the contemporary manner, by reducing nature's animation to emphasize form.

The exhibition is well worth a visit any afternoon between 4 and 6.

Taught to Drink By Father, Son's Suit Charges

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Stories of how his wealthy father, Fraser Gilman, gave him beer, wine and whisky when he was 7 years old, on their ranch in South Dakota, and on one occasion got him drunk, were related to a jury yesterday by Preston N. Gilman, of Coco, Fla.

The son, co-plaintiff with his sister, Isabel, in a fight to break the Fraser Gilman will, which left them but $30,000 of a $300,000 estate, testified that so firmly did his father inculcate a taste for alcohol in him that he has been in 12 or 14 sanitariums and is in one now, in an effort to overcome the habit.

Fraser Gilman, the plaintiffs charge, was of unsound mind. He was a half-brother of the late George Gilman, millionaire chain grocery magnate.

Three Poll Officers Named By Court

Alfred C. Duff, of 1515 Warren street has been appointed Judge of Elections for the Ninth District of the Twenty-fifth Ward to replace William J. Remele, who resigned after being given a position on the county payroll. Judge Elder W. Marshall made the appointment in Quarter Sessions Court.

Judge Marshall also appointed Robert H. Killen, 6306 Broad street, to be Judge and J. E. Borland, Broad street, to be Inspector of the First District of the Eleventh Ward. Both men are said to have been elected to the positions November 4, but the Election Board failed to make a return of their election.

'Y' Group Watches Electrical 'Magic'

Electrical phenomena were demonstrated by Dr. Phillips Thomas, Westinghouse research engineer, at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. last night. Lecturing on "Electrons at Work and at Play," Dr. Thomas revealed some of the most advanced ideas of science and engineering and their practical applications.

Lights of the auditorium obeyed his verbal commands "on" and "off." A light beam exploded an apple on the head of a dummy and a strange black box turned until its "electric eye" caught a flame on a nearby screen.

Odor Rule Dropped As Intoxication Test

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Kern Dodge, director of public safety, has rescinded an order under which policemen or firemen were adjudged intoxicated if a police surgeon smelled liquor on their breath. The order was put in force by Dodge's predecessor, Lemuel B. Schofield.

While police and firemen are forbidden to drink, intoxication is a more serious offense, Dodge said. He ordered that in the future police surgeons must give testimony in cases of alleged intoxication.

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL STRAIGHTEN HER OUT

Of course you are particular about the medicines you give your child. You want no harmful drugs, no narcotics in a child's medicine.

When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced.

That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments. It contains nothing that can harm a child's tender organs.

Castoria is so mild you can safely give it to a young infant to ease colic pains. Yet, gentle as it is, it is unfailingly effective. Larger doses keep older children well regulated. And babies and children alike love its taste—never object to taking Castoria!

The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's remedy. The genuine Castoria always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

PITCAIRN HEARS FATHER COX

Five hundred persons must die of starvation and physicians certify the cause of death before some members of Congress can be made to believe that there is starvation in this nation, the Rev. James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church, told more than 1,200 persons in Pitcairn last night. The "Mayor of Shantytown" delivered an address under the auspices of the businessmen of Pitcairn.

The meeting was held in the high school auditorium with 700 persons crowding into the room. Amplifiers carried the address to more than 500 others in the corridors and outside. Burgess M. M. Thompson presided and introduced the speaker.

That almost all the representatives sent by the people to the national and state capitols were controlled, was charged earlier in the evening by Father Cox in an address before the National League of Commission Merchants in the Fruit Exchange Building, Twenty-first street.

Describing the jobless march to Washington, he declared that no arguments have been raised against the petitions he presented. He also said that unemployed conditions were not improving.

Falsely Accused, Man Forgives Girl

DOROTHY DODSON, 14 EDWARD FARRAND, 51

DOROTHY: "I'M SORRY FOR THE TROUBLE I CAUSED YOU . . ."

Cleared of Club Charge, Wishes Her 'Good Luck'

Edward Farrand, 51, of the North Side, falsely accused by Dorothy Dodson, 14, of Race street, with having struck her with a club, today forgave the girl and wished her "all the luck in the world." Dorothy said:

"I'm sorry for the trouble I caused you, but you see I wanted to live with my grandmother and I thought that if I told the story to my father he'd send me back."

Ferrand replied:

"That's all right, Dorothy. I felt pretty helpless waiting in jail and things would have been too bad for me if you hadn't told the truth. Just watch yourself and don't make any trouble for anybody. It's all right with me now and I wish you all the luck in the world."

Farrand was released yesterday when charges against him were quashed after Dorothy told Judge Elder W. Marshall she had faked the story of being beaten by Farrand. A younger sister, she said, cut her head when she struck her with the buckle of her father's belt.

Diet Didn't Do This!

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic!"

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

We know, Madam.

FULL TRAINING HELPS BUC OUTLOOK

WHILE THERE NEVER was the slightest doubt that all the Pirate holdouts, like those on every other club in the major leagues, would swing into line eventually, it is gratifying to find the roundup almost completed in time to assure a full training course for practically the whole crew. Salary matters concern only the parties involved, but when a player misses part of the practice trip, is not in shape to do his best at the opening of the season, and games are lost in consequence, holdouts affect the interests of the club and therefore those of the fans as well.

Heinie Meine

It is a favorable early break for the Bucs that they are to be saved from any situation of that sort. With Heinie Meine and Steve Swetonic as the only players remaining who have not agreed on terms, it is probably a question of but a short time until all hands are in the fold. That means a thoroughly conditioned club to go to the post for the pennant start on April 12, and it shapes up as an item that will have a weighty influence for the good in the early activities of the Buccaneers.

A FULL SQUAD on hand from the start of the conditioning sessions was desirable from another angle this year, inasmuch as there is a new manager on the job who has got to make comparisons in order to get the team shaped to best advantage in his own judgment, and he couldn't hope for very rapid progress in that direction with part of this squad missing.

With conditions as they are, Gibson will have plenty of time to shape his spring plans and to do whatever maneuvering or shifting is found advisable. The only drawback now is the fact that Heinie Meine is still a holdout, which might be a serious matter under some circumstances, as the Pirates could ill afford to lose the National League's leading righthand pitcher of 1931, a man who turned in 19 wins.

HOWEVER THOUGH MEINE has a profitable restaurant business in a St. Louis suburb and differs from the average holdout in that he could carry out a retirement threat if he cared to do so, he admits that he likes baseball too well to give it up easily, and it is probable that he and the club will adjust their differences in short order.

All around, President Benswanger and Vice President Watters have done a neat job in rounding up the Bucs to a point so close to 100 per cent at a time when conditions have made players more difficult to sign than in many years. It is an early tribute to their business efficiency and fairness.

DAZZY VANCE has finally agreed with the Brooklyn owners on salary terms. He has at last consented to take a reduction of approximately 35 per cent and sign for $15,000, but objected to being cut from $23,000 to $12,000. In his 10 seasons with the Dodgers, Vance has drawn a total of $152,000 in pay checks. In his first year, 1922, he signed for $2,900, and his salary was boosted in each of the next two seasons. After winning 28 games against six defeats in 1924, he was given a three-year contract calling for $18,800 annually. In 1930 he reached his peak at $25,000, and last year compromised at $23,000 after a prolonged holdout.

Clarence Mitchell

FEW BASEBALL PLAYERS ever get older than 28 if you'll take their word for it. When the average baller passes 28, or 30 at the outside, he is apt to begin to cheat. He figures he will be judged according to his age.

The first notable exception to that rule in the big league was Babe Adams, of the Pirates. The record book gave 1883 as the year of Babe's birth. Adams said it was wrong, that he had been born in 1882 and was a year older than the book indicated. Clarence Mitchell now stands out as the second major leaguer to confess that the dope sheets have been giving him the better of it.

ACCORDING TO THE records, Mitchell was born on February 22, 1891, which would mean that he had just turned his forty-first year. But the veteran spitballer says this is incorrect, that he was born in 1889, and therefore is 43.

Mitchell, the only lefthander except Harry Krause and Lefty Mattern to have any notable success with the spitball, has but two seniors in the major leagues, and both are damp-fling specialists. They are Jack Quinn, of the Dodgers, 46 or older, and Urban Faber, of the White Sox, who tops Mitchell by five months.

THOUGH THE OWNERS of the St. Louis Cardinals have given up Scottdale in the Middle Atlantic League as part of their famous chain system, the action does not mean that they intend to operate without a farm in that circuit. On the contrary, negotiations are said to be pending for the purchase of the Johnstown club in the M. A. loop, with a good chance that the Redbird bosses will take over control of the Flood City outfit at an early date, and add it to Rochester, Columbus, Houston, Springfield, Mo., Danville and Greensboro. Speaking of the Middle Atlantic wheel, the pennant campaign isn't the only one ahead of League President Elmer Daily this year. The circuit chief is to be a candidate for the state assembly in his home district.

THOUGH ADMITTING THAT Jack Dempsey looked "pretty terrible" in his four-round bout with King Levinsky in Chicago last week, Ray Alvis, a close friend of the former champion, and who was here with his fighter, Tony Herrera, for Monday's show in Motor Square Garden, says he believes Dempsey capable of much better stuff.

"It stands to reason that a man can't be riding all over the country on trains, shaking hands with a million people, more or less, every day, attending banquets and entertainments almost every night, and be in shape to fight." Alvis said. "I have an idea that Dempsey will prove himself to be a whole lot better than he looks now in the ring when he gets a chance to settle down to serious work."

SUCH A BAD exhibition as Dempsey put up in Chicago would generally put an end to barnstorming in that particular spot, but fandom is falling so hard for the comeback bunk that Jack and Levinsky may be expected to repeat the act. In fact, the Chicago Stadium offered a date late in March for a return exhibition, this one to be of six rounds, but Leonard Sarks, Dempsey's manager, says the next time Jack meets Levinsky it will be for 10 rounds with six-ounce gloves.

All of which, no doubt, is intended to keep up interest in the exhibition tour. Dempsey has already raked in close to $500,000, but will keep it up as long as the public bites. Following last night's appearance in Louisville, he is to box in Dayton, O., February 29, in Cincinnati, March 3, in Akron or Canton, March 10, with K. O. Christner again, or Tiny Powell, and has tentative bookings in Toronto, Detroit and other cities.

Mike Pecora

WHEN HE SET a new world amateur indoor walking record for one mile by doing the distance in 6 minutes 27 1-5 seconds at the A. A. U. meet in New York Monday night, Mike Pecora, of the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., smashed a mark that had stood for more than 20 years. The previous record was just four-fifths of a second higher, or 6 minutes and 28 seconds, made by George H. Goulding in Buffalo, December 16, 1911. The world amateur outdoor mark for the mile walk is 6:22 1-5, set by William Murray in Melbourne, February 24, 1912, and the world professional record is 6:22, established August 4, 1913, by George Cummings in Manchester, England.

BUCS' SECOND SQUAD SPEEDS FOR COAST

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—The second squad of Pittsburgh Pirates was well on its way to Kansas City today after a layover in this city. In charge of Scout Bill Hinchman and Business Manager Lawrence B. Coller, the rear guard came to Chicago last night from Pittsburgh.

Tony Piet, a resident of Chicago, and the most likely candidate for George Grantham's second base toga, was the only person to join the athletic caravan at this point.

TONY SET TO GO

Piet was an outstanding performer in the Western League last season as he starred for Wichita, which team was a Pirate farm. A strong lad of Polish extraction, Tony is a streak on the bases and in the field and in 40 odd games with the Pirates last year he batted better than .300.

The Chicagoan was dissatisfied with the salary offered him for this year and he lined up with a flock of Pittsburgh holdouts, but the pay difficulty was amicably ironed out in time for Tony to sign the contract and hook up with his buddies.

When the Pittsburgh entourage reaches Kansas City late tonight, it will welcome two team regulars, Outfielder Paul Waner and Shortstop Tommy Thevenow are slated to climb aboard the special cars at this point. At Amarillo, tomorrow, Lloyd Waner will be awaiting the Santa Fe flyer.

PIE MAY JOIN PARTY

Brother Lloyd will be the last of the Buccos to board the train until after it has passed into the spacious confines of California. The squad is due to reach Los Angeles Saturday morning. There is a chance that Capt. Pie Traynor will join up with the Buccos at that point. Traynor's wife is convalescent in a Los Angeles hospital, where she recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Pitcher Steve Swetonic also is in Los Angeles, but the sharpshooter is one of the few Pirates who has not signed his contract. He is not likely to report to Manager Gibson until he has come to terms with the officials of the club.

Before the Pirates embarked from Pittsburgh yesterday it was announced that Paul and Lloyd Waner and Pitcher Bill Swift had arrived at terms and no longer were holdouts, having dutifully signed their contracts. Heine Meine and Steve Swetonic, pitchers, are the lone remaining Buc rebels.

FRENCH SATISFIED

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Feb. 24.—The Pirates' training camp was brightened considerably by the arrival of Larry French from his home in Visalia, yesterday.

He held a conference with Manager George Gibson, after which he admitted he has not yet affixed his signature and would not do so until a letter now in the mail reaches him. It is believed he referred to a new contract that may be on its way from Pittsburgh.

French donned a uniform and worked out, however.

"You can take my word that any man who puts on a uniform and goes upon the field, has come to terms," Gibson remarked.

Gibson was pleased to learn than Ervin Brame and Bill Swift had settled their differences. All excepting Heinie Meine and Steve Swetonic now are accounted for and Gibby said he would not be surprised to see these hurlers at any moment.

French brought with him a 23-year-old catcher, William (Butch) Simas, who was mentioned as an all-America quarterback two years ago when he played football at St. Mary's College in California.

NEW ROOKIE IN CAMP

Simas is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 174 pounds. He played for a couple of months last season with the Sacramento club and emerged with a batting mark of .312 in the Pacific Coast League.

In the afternoon, the Bucs were driven through a long, hard drill. Southpaw Charley Wood was called to the sidelines and given a series of instructions. Coach Otis Crandall worked for half an hour teaching the correct stance and striving to overcome a tendency to jerk the ball in delivery.

Gus Suhr's mighty wallop which cleared the rightfield fence by at least six feet, was the feature of the first batting practice. Johnny Rice, the outfield rookie from Pasadena High School, and Bill Brenzel, former Mission catcher, also delighted Gibson by their powerful slugging.

Each of the pitchers worked for five minutes on the mound, but Earl Grace and Brenzel did almost all the catching.

PITT BATTLES RESERVE FIVE TONIGHT

GAMES TONIGHT

Carnegie Tech vs. Princeton, at Princeton.
Pitt vs. Western Reserve, at Cleveland.
Bluefield vs. D. E., at Elkins.
Broaddus vs. Waynesburg, at Waynesburg.

By JESS CARVER

Two of our more or less celebrated local college basketball fives will play tag with the fates on foreign courts tonight in contests that feature the intercollegiate court program as it concerns the tri-state area. Carnegie Tech opens a three-game invasion of the eastern precincts in Princeton, tackling the Tigers in their lair, and Pitt trainpeses into Cleveland for a clash with Western Reserve.

Meanwhile, Coach Chick Davies plans to put the final and polishing touches to his Duquesne machine in preparation for tomorrow night's touch assignment at Morgantown, where the Dukes must meet a suddenly rejuvenated West Virginia array. The contest is the only one on the week's program for the Red and Blue.

LOCALS FAVORITES

The assignments ahead of the Panthers and Tartans appear to be about the same in their degree of toughness. Neither Princeton or Western Reserve are much about which to brag in a basketball way. The Red Cats were beaten here by Carnegie earlier in the year, and Princeton's record for the present campaign is very much so-so. The locals figure to win.

Duquesne's boxers also have a date in Morgantown tomorrow, with West Virginia's accomplished punchers. Carnegie's fighters, under the careful tutelage of Ernie Sesto, are preparing for their engagement here Saturday night with Bucknell.

The Tipoff

Buddy Overend, Tech's graduate manager of athletics, is accompanying the Tartan varsity on its trip through the East this week. The great Overend will lend moral support to the 5ft6in cause. W. Don Harrison, the head man at Pitt, is in Chicago for a couple of days, which leaves the local field to John Holahan, of the Dukes.

The boys pretty generally are agreed that Westminster is the class of the district basketball field, possibly a point or two better even than the Dukes. The Titans' great height gives them a tremendous edge. Coach Lawther has done a job of a lot of coaching, his team not only being a formidable offensive machine but smart and alert on the defense. It is difficult to see how the Titans can be beaten from now on in. They'll probably murder Allegheny again tomorrow night.

Although he did not equal his own indoor broad jump record in taking down the A. A. U. championship in New York Monday night, Favorite Utterbach, Pitt's fine Negro star, accomplished his return to form in convincing manner. Utterbach was just an ordinary jumper last year, after having had a good record the season previous. The big fellow is through at Pitt, but he'll make a strong bid for the U. S. Olympic team.

DAZZY VANCE, WRIGHT SIGN

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Dazzy Vance, baseball's leading holdout, broke ranks with the salary-wranglers today and signed his 1932 Brooklyn contract. The terms were not revealed, but it is believed the Dazzler signed for $15,000.

The signing came with spectacular suddenness and followed a two-hour conference between the pitcher and Max Carey, manager, last night.

Shortstop Glenn Wright signed his '32 contract late yesterday.

Baseball Notes

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Five Hughes, Dizzy Dean, Tex Carleton and Jesse Haines reported to the Cardinals' camp today. Others here yesterday for their first spring practice. Attendance were Floyd Khem, Bud Teachout, Jim Lindsey, Jimmy Wilson and Gus Mancuso. Khem is here, but as he has not signed, did not go through a workout.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Manager John McGraw arrived at the New York Giants' training headquarters and made his presence felt by announcing there would be two practice sessions a day starting tomorrow.

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—A two-hour drill in the art of base-sliding was given the young Cubs by Manager Rogers Hornsby and his aides yesterday.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—The arm of the Cincinnati Reds pitching staff, died down appeared to have joined the chief of pitchers when he failed to join the squad in spring training here. Lucas openly expressed dissatisfaction with a proposed salary reduction several weeks ago. He is the only batterman not in the fold.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Burt Shotton starts his fifth trip to Florida at the head of the Phillies today filled with confidence in a good season. He and his batterymen will form the advance guard of the annual trek to Winter Haven. Some players already are there and the others will straggle in before next week.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Waite Hoyt was unconditionally released from the Boston Park pitching staff, walked into the Athletics training camp yesterday looking trim and fit.

"Why hello, Waite. You look like the Hoyt of five years ago," was the way Manager Connie Mack greeted him. "All together he would take the pitcher back if salary differences be adjusted and he shows up well in the workouts, however Mack had nothing to say.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP.)—The New York Yankees reduced their holdout list by one yesterday with the announcement that Shortstop Leo Lary has come to terms. Still on the list of the uncontented are Babe Ruth, Bill Dickey, Tony Lazzeri and Big Chapman, of the regulars, and Jesse Hill, a rookie outfielder.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Manager John McGraw, here today to direct his Giants, said St. Louis is the club New York will have to beat this season. He picks the Cubs to finish third and Brooklyn fourth in the National League derby. McGraw said that if Fitz is in shape to play second base, Lindstrom would start in center field, with Ott in right and Lee Kowenke, Indianapolis rookie, in left.

PETERSON GAINS

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Charles P. Peterson, of St. Louis, won the eleventh block of his fancy shots billiard contest with Lenoir Ribas, of Spain, last night, 101 to 1?9, but the Spaniard still leads in total points. The score stands: Ribas 1,327; Peterson 1,358.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

After the Polish consulate had failed to find Adam Comorosky yesterday, Vice President Sam Watters, of the Pirates, instigated a search in other directions and the diligent Sam eventually was in touch with his prey in the same hard coal districts that Commy loves so well. In other words, folks, Adam was still with Ma Comorosky while Watters hunted high and low for the missing athlete who was ordered to report on the date of the second squad's departure for Paso Robles.

For one so rugged and healthy, Commy can come up with a strange assortment of ailments. In the present case, however, the Polish Flyer has nothing more than a severe cold so he will be along today in time to board a late train for Chicago, en route to the camp.

Watters really did enlist the good offices of the local consulate to the extent of a 'phone communication with Joe Dasher, a member of the staff who is a close friend of the outfielder. Sam tried to find Commy at various hotels and was quite relieved when Adam telephoned from his home to tell of his sickness.

So Comorosky will proceed to Paso Robles by himself, although this will not be a new experience for him. One year ago the coal miner broke out in a rash (not a rash of baseHits as the batting averages discloses). The malady delayed his departure for a few days and the outfielder had to commune principally with Pullman porters and conductors on the long journey westward.

When Commy reaches the scene this year he will find two of three pretty fair country ball players attempting to oust him from his berth. One of them is Dave Barbee, the Herculean North Carolinian, who smacked the apple for 47 homers last season. And Dave is no setup in the outfield, according to Coast League baseball sharps.

Another very serious contender for Commy's berth is Forrest Jensen, the "lefthanded all the way" ball hawk. Now Adam is regarded as one of the best fly-chasers in the National League, but Jensen passed a few samples around National League parks last year which led many customers to think that he is right near the top in the art of spoiling baseHits for the other fellow.

Then, again, there is Augustin Dugas, the sturdy French Canuck, who led the American Association in batting last season as he starred for the Kansas City Blues under a Pittsburgh option.

There are no hives to plague Commy this year, but he will have to do some scratching, nevertheless, to keep any one of several boys from staking a claim in left field.

Wood Forced Out With Strained Wrist

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—Sidney B. Wood, Jr., was forced to retire from the Bermuda tennis championships yesterday because of a badly strained wrist. He had won the first set of his match with Capt. B. V. Smith, of Bermuda, 6-1, but was trailing, 6-5, in the second when he was forced to quit.

SQUASH PLAY UNDER WAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Competition in the first annual city Class B squash racquets championship tourney gets under way at the Keystone Athletic Club this afternoon. Twenty-three performers are thus far entered in the action, with the prospect of an additional several more contenders before the start of hostilities.

The tourney will last over the week-end and should, if the majority of the contestants live up to their customary form, produce tilts favorably comparable to those in prospect for the Class A title events a little more than a week hence.

Eight outstanding crown-seekers have been seeded in the impending melee though no attempt has been made to rate the select group in any order of ranking. Alex Robinson, Allegheny Country Club; Herb Lytle and Chip Kennedy, of the K. A. C.; Alf Hamilton and Paul Hicks, University Club; Charley Lockhart, Pittsburgh Golf Club; Capt. Fred A. McMahon, P. A. A., and Charley "Quizzer" Woods, of the Edgewood Club, comprise the chosen octet.

Other keen racqueters who will bear watching are Jimmy Fulton, K. A. C.; J. O. Craig, K. A. C.; Ray Babcock, K. A. C., and Graham McCargo, Pittsburgh Golf Club. The first round pairings:

Alex Robinson vs. blank, J. G. Fulton, Jr., vs. J. S. Gish, A. W. Schmidt vs. blank, J. O. Craig vs. H. G. Lytle, Alf Hamilton vs. blank, Ralph Carroll vs. C. J. Kennedy, K. A. C., Bob Babcock, K. A. TWO COLTS RELEASED

CUMBERLAND, Md., Feb. 24.—Harold (Pat) Shea and Johnny Jackson, who served as regular outfielders with the Cumberland Colts last season, have been given their unconditional release by the New York Yankees, according to advices received by President Nelson W. Rossiter of the local team.

BOXER IN HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(INS.)—Frank Fehr, German light-heavyweight boxer, was in City Hospital today suffering from a possible cerebral concussion. Knocked out by Harry Shafman, at New York in the first round of their bout at the Lenox A. C. here last night, Fehr could not be revived for several minutes.

Unless he suffers a "relapse," Gordy Fraser, defense ace of the Yellow Jackets, will be back in the lineup when the local International Hockey League warriors meet the Syracuse Stars at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night.

Gordy has participated in the Jackets' last two workouts, and appears to have shaken off the knee injury which he sustained in London a little more than a week ago. In the event that the injury is not aggravated in the workout scheduled for tonight, he will be ready to appear at his position at left defense.

The Reidman are making no mistake in taking their fray with the Stars seriously. In their last start the Stars swamped Buffalo, 6 to 3, and as a result of pulling out close decisions in overtime battles in their last two appearances here, they hold the edge in their season series with the locals.

Roy Schooley, Jr., has announced that the scheduled game between the Pittsburgh Collegians and the Polish Olympic team, for Duquesne Garden, Saturday night, has been canceled.

The manager of the Polish team in a wire said that inasmuch as the team had to leave immediately for its native land, it was impossible to play the contest.

The Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. and the Braddock Library Club will meet in a water polo match tonight in the Y. pool. The game will get under way at 8:30.

By JULIUS LEVIN

Schenley High School clinched the championship of Section I, of the City Senior League, yesterday, when young Artie Hyatt blossomed forth with an aggregate of 24 points, an individual scoring record, to lead the Bellefielders to a 48-23 victory over South High. Allegheny, which reposes at the top of the Section II heap, was idle yesterday so far as league warfare was concerned, but far from it in its non-league battle with Shady Side Academy, which it defeated, 31 to 5.

Allderdice won from Peabody, 23-9; Fifth Avenue nosed out Westinghouse, 26 to 22; Perry came to life to beat Langley, 34-16; South Hills battered Allegheny Vocational, 41-14, and Oliver barely beat Carrick, 25-23, in other senior circuit contests.

In the junior division, Overbrook, Herron Hill and Gladstone triumphed.

BRADDOCK WINS CROWN

The W. P. I. A. L. race was climaxed by battles furious, for in many sectional groups the title was at stake. The regular season's play was completed.

Braddock beat Rankin to win its tenth title; Scott High, of North Braddock, topped Turtle Creek; Tarentum won from Freeport; Midland beat Monaca; Washington bowed to Waynesburg; Ford City bumped Kittanning; Coraopolis won over Sewickley; Dormont lost to Mt. Lebanon; Edgewood nosed out Aspinwall; Bentleyville copped from Brownsville; McDonald knocked off Cecil and Aliquippa defeated Ambridge, thereby cinching the honors in Section IV.

Stowe copped from McKees Rocks; Charleroi walloped West Newton, 40 to 8; Bellevue lost to Avalon; Donora tripped Monongahela; Homestead nosed out Duquesne; Swissvale, heretofore unbeaten, was stopped by Wilkinsburg; Leechburg downed Dayton, and Verona topped Oakmont.

Sport Vignettes

Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, recently married, and now Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, whom he meets in a return bout in Motor Square Garden next Monday night, has bought himself a horse. . . . Jimmy can shoot the horse, but wives are something else again. . . . The tip is out that St. Vincent College may follow St. Francis and drop athletics for a year. . . . If Pat Corr's Pitt swimming team comes through its season undefeated, it will meet Carnegie Tech in a post-season duel for the local championship on March 9.

The real name of Charley Baxter, the local lightweight boxer, by the way, is Charles Gregaro. . . . The other day, announcement was made in this column that Frank G. Menke's fine annual Sports Record Book was now available and could be obtained by writing the author in New York. . . . The price of the book was not mentioned, and Frank reports he has been deluged with requests for copies to be sent free, which can't be done, Christmas not being due until next December.

Dave Maier and Georgie Nichols, survivors in the N. B. A. lightheavyweight elimination tournament, who are to meet in the final round for the title, both are southpaws . . . But, then, you can stay away from the match if you care to. . . . Maier knocked out Georgie in an earlier bout, after Nichols had piled up a big lead. . . . Nichols hails from Sandusky, O., but has been boxing out of Buffalo for a half-dozen years.

Every once in so often a story pops out that Jim Marks, the Sage of Kiski, is going to risk his neck on a college football coaching job, and this is as good a time as any to let it be known that J. L. hopes they lead him away to a padded cell if he ever should become so foolish as to do such a thing. . . . For be it known that Marks is part owner of Kiski, a highly successful school, and that he finds his work there a delightful occupation and is convinced that there is a much bigger field in putting something into boys' heads than into their feet. . . . In other words, it appears he would prefer to kick the coaches to coaching the kickers—and you can boot that around.—HARRY KECK.

LOCAL GOLFERS HONORED

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Three Pittsburghers have been named on subcommittees of the United States Golf Association for the ensuing year. J. Frederic Byers, Allegheny Country Club veteran of golf politics, retains the most important job of the trio, as chairman of the international committee. He also has a post on the rules of golf committee, with William C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, former national amateur champion, erstwhile U. S. G. A. prexy, and retired player. Fownes also maintains his place on the committee on implements and the ball, having been a prime mover first in the experiment with the first larger and lighter pellet, and then with the larger and heavier present model.

Kenneth C. Witherow, local public links sectional committeeman, again has been placed in that capacity, and the secretary of the University of Pennsylvania Alumni Association has made a pretty good job of it.

Ganson Depew, of Buffalo, has been honored with the chairmanship of two committees, the green section and the public links section; John G. Jackson, of New York, heads the rules of golf group; Robert M. Cutting, of New York, directs the championship committee; Prescott S. Bush, of New York, has charge of the membership and maintenance end; Rodman E. Griscom, still another New Yorker, is chairman of the amateur status and conduct committee; Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of Minneapolis, is directing the selection of courses; Everett H. Seaver heads the committee on sectional affairs; Herbert Jaques, of Lowell, Mass., chairmans the implements and the ball group, and Charles Eaton, of Harvard, is in charge of collegiate affairs.

MORRYS PLAY IN CLEVELAND

By TOM BIRKS

The Cleveland Shamrocks and the Castle Shannon Morrys will meet in the western final of the national amateur cup at Hooper Field, Cleveland, Sunday, March 6, Secretary John J. McEwan advised the local commissioner today.

The communication stated that negotiations were under way for a Buffalo referee to handle this important game. The Morrys had been making strenuous efforts to have the game played at South Park, and it is believed the game would have drawn a record crowd.

Secretary McEwan said no other games would be played in the Forest City that day. Local soccer critics feel that the Morrys were entitled to the game, because most of the Cleveland teams have played their tourney games at home.

The West Penn Football Association held its regular meeting last evening. The council upheld the appeals committee's decision on the Clan Douglas-Union Switch case.

Then the appeals committee took up the appeal of Buff Donnelli against the decision of the cup committee. A lengthy debate found the committee upholding the cup committee's ruling in the semi-final game with the Shannon Morrys, but no definite decision was reached.

The OLYMPIC GAMES

By Lawson Robertson

Lawson Robertson
Head Coach American Olympic Teams

CHAPTER I.

Historians are not in accord as to the exact year when the Greeks arranged the first fetes which later became known as the Olympic Games. But the concensus fixes it at about 776 B. C., and the festival was continued until 392 A. D.—a span of 1,168 years.

The Greeks of the dim ages, who revered their dead more than any other nation, came to feel that the spirits of the departed would gain pleasure through seeing spectacles such as had gladdened them in life.

The result was the staging of festivals in different parts of Greece on regular dates. The earliest of these consisted of sacrifices to the gods and the playing of some games either before a funeral pyre or at the tomb of the departed.

GAMES ARE MERGED

In time the Greeks came to believe that the gods delighted in the services and contests and, to add to their joy, as well as that of the spirits of the dead, the programs were greatly enlarged. Small communities which had been conducting fetes of their own finally merged so that the games would embrace a greater number of contestants.

The Olympic games, so called because they were conducted in the shadows of the sacred Mount Olympus, soon became the most famous of these festivals and, eventually, festivals in other places in Greece were merged with the Olympic games and this tournament became the only truly representative of Greece as a nation.

The Olympic games reached their zenith in Greece along about 464 B. C., which was the time of the seventy-sixth Olympiad. The men who were hopeful of appearing in the games went into strenuous training a year in advance. This was done at the call of heralds for the king, these heralds going to all of the principal cities and towns of the nation.

CONSIDERED HIGHEST HONOR

A month before the games, in which Greeks alone were permitted to participate up to that time, there was a preliminary test for all entrants and those who did not meet a certain standard of athletic ability, or who were found guilty of a crime or sacrilege, were refused the right to compete.

To take part in the games was the highest honor that could be bestowed on a youth in Greece.

Women were barred from the Stadium and all contestants were naked. Foot-racing was the favorite form of sport in the earliest Olympic Games. Later came wrestling, jumping, discus throwing, pugilism, fighting and the pancratium.

DUELS TO THE DEATH

The latter was a combination of wrestling and pugilism, wherein the cestus was used, and were the only really brutal features of an Olympic program. The rules covering the pancratium were: "to be continued until one man yields." So courageous were the athletes and so fearful were they of the scorn that comes to a "quitter" that usually the Pancratium, wherin butting, gouging, slugging, throwing and kicking were allowed, ended only when death took one or the other.

The cestus duels were "to the death."

There were many impressive ceremonies during the games, which were strung out over a period of five days, and I will discuss them in my next article, in Sunday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Bacha, Monessen Gridiron Star, Dies

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 24.—Pneumonia has ended the career of Michael Bacha 25, of Monessen, one of the outstanding independent football players of the lower Monongahela Valley.

Bacha did not play football during his high school days at Monessen, but later took up the sport and became one of the outstanding fullbacks of the district, playing with the Monessen Olympics and then joining the McKeesport Olympics. He was ill only a few days, and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Bacha.

ARAB BAND ON AIR :-: Sophie Kerr, Novelist, In Interview

Listening In—

With the Radio Editor

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS that were in use 2,000 years ago will be played by a group of native Arabs in a broadcast from KDKA at 9:45 o'clock tonight. The program will be presented by James Haddad and his Caravan. Selections will be heard from the rababeé, the orgool, the mizmar and the oud, forerunners of the present-day violin, organ and wood-wind instruments.

The first of hundreds of telephone calls which swamped WCAE last night following Roxy's interview was from a group of his old friends in Forest City, Pa., where the former coal miner and ex-Marine opened his first "nickelodeon" and started out along the road which has taken him to the front ranks of radio and the theatrical worlds.

Roxy was just as happy as a boy with a new bicycle as he sat before the microphone once more, and the emotion which welled tears to his eyes was proof conclusive that he meant it when he said:

"The public doesn't miss my 'gang' and me nearly as much as we miss them, and I'll be happy when we return to the air regularly again soon."

Program Pointers

John Philip Sousa, who composed "The Stars and Stripes Forever" 35 years ago, directs it again tonight on WCAE at 8:30.

Sophie Kerr

Dr. Watson tells about Sherlock Holmes' adventure of the five orange pips, a story of vengeance that began and ended in a terrific storm, on KDKA at 9.

Sophie Kerr, popular novelist, is interviewed on the Bath Club program on WJAS at 8. Miss Kerr at one time was a newspaper woman in Pittsburgh.

Grantland Rice should have lots of women listeners on WCAE at 10. He interviews Amos Parrish, indicator of style trends.

Singin' Sam introduces something new on WJAS tonight when he presents his Little Shavers, novelty orchestra.

Riggs and Moke, "the crazy pair," cut up with all their old assurdom again tonight on WCAE at 7:21.

Question Box

Do Exley and John Stebbins, Arthur Allen and Parker Fennelly take the parts of other characters in the Stebbins Boys sketches?—J. C. H., North Side.

With a single exception, there has been no "doubling" in the Stebbins sketches. For a few nights, Arthur Allen took the part of Capt. Browning, aged war veteran, who "died."

DX Doings

RICHARD CADDELL, of 605 Ridge avenue, North Side, says he has heard more than 1,100 stations. He has received verifications from 900, including T14NHR, a 15-watter in Heredia, Costa Rica, and 3GL, in Gelong, Australia. Included in his log are 13 stations in Japan, three in Africa, 21 in Mexico and others in England, Ireland, Norway, Sweden and Spain.

Many Pittsburgh "hams" listen-in regularly to WJSV, operating on 1460 k. c., in Washington, D. C. It broadcasts news flashes from the Washington Herald office at 10 p. m. nightly, except Sunday. WJSV, a 10-kilowatt station, boasts that it is heard from Maine to Florida.

Fan Fare

Ray Perkins will interview his piano, Clarence, on WCAE tomorrow night. Stage stars, a vocal trio and Albertina Rasch dancing girls will round out the program in the absence of Rudy Vallee.

Leo Reisman is taking a vacation . . . Ward Wilson, radio's mimic, says the late John B. Daniel, NBC announcer, had the finest radio voice of all time . . . Lee Sims, of Piano Moods, can't play unless his hands are moist . . . He keeps a dampened cloth at the keyboard all the time he is on the air . . . Cesare Sodero, NBC operatic conductor and composer, wears an old-fashioned white wash tie.

When Bing Crosby consolidates his twice-a-night broadcasts into a single coast-to-coast program for CBS starting Monday, he will go on without a sponsor.

Paul Munroe, new WJAS announcer, plays his radio role in personal appearances with the Galbraith Sisters in Brentwood this week . . . Joseph Bell, master of ceremonies in the Sherlock Holmes programs, used to be a Broadway actor. . . KDKA'S Hill Billy Boys, Jack and Jerry Foy, use guitars valued at $500 each . . . Walter Damrosch will be honored by Czechoslovakia during his Sunday concert . . . The Countess Olga Albani, Spanish soprano, is Americanized in one respect . . . Her favorite card game is poker.

NBC annexes KTBS, of Shreveport, La., on Sunday. That brings its total up to 88.

Forbes

Signs of Spring Bring Signs of More Activity

By B. C. FORBES

HERE AND THERE men formerly despondent are beginning to pick up heart.

Unquestionably, financial forces of a distinctly stimulating nature are ready to be unleashed.

Mr. Forbes

Pent-up orders in certain heavy industries are about to be released. Railway buying of rails, for example, is likely to reach impressive volume in coming weeks. One learns of contracts being placed for raw materials for future delivery, an encouraging development. Some manufcturers who heretofore have been buying strictly from hand to mouth, have reached the conclusion that more risk is entailed in not covering distant needs than in covering them at current attractive prices. It may or may not be significant that the general downward price trend has greatly slackened in recent months and that there has lately been appreciable recovery in important commodities.

Now that we are within a month of spring, the feeling is growing that noticeable, if not notable, revival in activity is nigh at hand.

NO ADEQUATE reason—even excuse—has been offered my the New York Stock Exchange governors for their failure to issue short-selling data weekly.

President Hoover's critics complain that, even when he has taken constructive action, he has invariably delayed too long, thus minimizing the credit accorded him and also the beneficial effects of his action.

Exactly the same criticism can be made of the Stock Exchange authorities. They have allowed the public to gain the impression that each progressive step has been forced upon them. This is unfortunate. The Stock Exchange is absolutely essential to our modern economic

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Rise Slowly — Local Market Narrow

STOCK MARKET MAKES SLOW ADVANCE

List Stiffens After Early Decline and Shows Many Advances of 1 to 2 Points

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP.)—The stock market turned slowly upward today.

This was a good sign, technically, since about half of the mid-month rally had been lost, and a further decline would have carried the price level beyond what could be considered a normal, technical setback. Trading, nevertheless, was extremely sluggish.

Several issues sagged a point or so at the start, but the list stiffened before the end of the first half hour, and by early afternoon, there were numerous advances of 1 to 2 points. Issues up a point or more included United States Steel, Consolidated Gas, American Can, American Tobacco "B", Liggett & Myers "B", Union Carbide, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Loews, Johns Manville, and others. American Telephone and Allied Chemical rose 2 points, as did such recent pool favorites as American Woolen preferred, and some of the New York tractions. Auburn recovered a little. National Surety dropped 4 points on postponement of dividend action.

Uneasiness was still manifest in some brokerage quarters over the congressional investigation of short selling, and the remarks of Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, before the House Judiciary sub-committee, were closely followed. Despite Mr. Whitney's emphatic defense of the practice of short selling, some observers thought the firmness of the market might represent a further retreat of shorts, since there was virtually nothing in the day's business or corporate news to inspire fresh bullishness.

Consolidated Gas was evidently bolstered by its 1931 earnings statement, showing net of $4.94 a share, or only 17 cents a share less than the profit per share for 1930. Corporate news, on the whole, however, remained unfavorable.

Midweek statistics reflecting the state of trade were disappointing. Iron Age reported that steel ingot production had dropped another point to 26 per cent of capacity, although the review said recent price increases bore out the industry's expectations of "a belated seasonal rise of some proportions." Freight loadings in the week ended February 13 were off 12,291 cars, a decrease somewhat larger than seasonal.

COTTON STEADY AT ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Cotton opened steady today, unchanged to 7 points higher on trade buying and covering, influenced by firm cables. May sold at 7.02.

Reports of a firm spot basis in the Southwest, owing to the unwillingness of sellers to follow yesterday's decline, and trade buying of near months helped the tone of the market and prices worked up a point or two during the first half hour with active months ruling about 5 to 10 points net higher. October was relatively firm, advancing to 7.42.

The volume of business tapered off later in the morning, but prices held generally steady. Prices at midday were holding around 7.05 for May and 7.44 for October or about 8 to 12 points net higher.

Senator Dill's Bank Bill Held Move to Check Money Hoarding

Undaunted by the unfavorable disposition made of a recent recommendation by the Postmaster General that the limit on savings deposits in postal savings be increased from $2,500 to $5,000, Senator Dill is moving to introduce a measure which would greatly increase the service of that branch of banking if carried. A great many observers, though mindful of course of the banking viewpoint, regard the postal savings banks as the real immediate means of breaking the backbone of the hoarding movement. The bill expected to be introduced into the Senate would permit the postal savings banks to open checking accounts to the limit of $5,000 in addition to present pass books accounts where deposits are limited to half that amount. Such a move should result in the small business man feeling the urge to put his funds into active circulation once more.

There was evidence last week that public interest in the market is spontaneous on both sides, many of the important movements in both directions have been concentrated in short periods of time recently. When the market was inclined to rally, there was an extensive buying movement among outsiders which petered out just as soon as resistance was encountered on the upturns. Similarly, the reactions brought a larger public supply because profits were being taken when the leading stocks indicated a somewhat lower selling range.

Considering the fact that the acute weakness which developed in Auburn failed yesterday to exert any material influence on the general market, it begins to look as though that stock has lost much of its prestige as a market leader. At any rate, uncommonly heavy offerings coming into the issue revealed a rather discouraging lack of firm demand until it had slumped to levels more than 15 points under the closing price of last week. At the low of 93 Auburn was within less than two points of its 1932 bottom with yesterday's low contrasting with a high of 151¾ for the year. Much of the unfavorable gossip in circulation recently was dusted off and trotted out again, and there was talk of the possibility of a questionnaire being issued though no confirmation of such intention was forthcoming.

Trico Products is coming into favor because of the prospects for somewhat increased earnings with improvement in automobile production as a result of the Ford resumption. It is maintained this action by Ford should stimulate other motor car makers. The company is earning its present dividend of $2.50 a share by a good margin and around current prices the yield on the issue is in the neighborhood of 8 per cent.

New York traction shares stood out as the one bright spot yesterday in an otherwise gloomy day marketwise. Under the leadership of Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, the traction shares were unusually active and registered quite substantial gains with virtually all of them moving into new high ground for the year. Strength here was influenced chiefly by knowledge of the fact that a meeting of the Transit Commission has been called for today, with unification plans to be the topic of discussion. This meeting will be the first of a series, and, while the traction company representatives will not be in attendance today, it is expected they will take part in subsequent discussions.

While the announcement of the new ruling against lending stocks without written consent from customers, effective April 1, caused a rush to cover by outsiders. Some of the big operators who had positions out were not so anxious to take in their commitments while the market was moving ahead last week. They argued that the ruling does not become effective until the end of nearly six weeks, which will give them opportunities to cover shorts if such action is deemed necessary, however, it was noted that these traders were not putting out additional short lines during the rallies.

Ken Acts Strangely and Lily Lou Begins to Fear Eventualities

CHAPTER XVIII

They had an apartment in a building on Filbert street, on Russian Hill. At night they could sit in their window and look out all over the bay, see the lights on the other side . . . pick out Lake Merritt . . . watch the flash of the light on Alcatraz . . .

Lily Lou knew every nook and corner of her aparment. She had the rented linen and silver by heart. She thought the rooms were beautiful, and certainly they were nicer than any she had lived in before.

"Can we afford it?" she asked, a little frightened.

"Sure, it's much cheaper than the hotel."

They had been staying at the St. Francis. Ken had insisted. He said it would be just for a few days and they might as well start out right. It was thrilling for Lily Lou. The crowded lobbies, the long dining rooms with the scurrying waiters, the snowy tables, the people who all seemed rich and well dressed. Their room was nice, too, so large, so luxurious . . . Lily Lou would have been very happy, if she hadn't worried.

She wrote long letters on the hotel stationery . . . to her mother, to Bess, to May . . . to the boys, John and Earl . . . . think of it! The youngest Lansing, sitting in her own room in a hotel like that, writing letters headed "Hotel St. Francis"—as if it were nothing at all!

ADVICE FROM BESS

But the answers from the family depressed her . . . they were so careful, so restrained. All but Bess—

"I'm sure I hope you'll be happy," Bess wrote "and don't you mind what anybody says. You've got your own life to live, and you've got just as much right to a home and husband and babies as any of us, so the family can just shut up about that.

"Don't you care what Ken's family says, either. They may think they are the last word, but you can't tell me that any big business man is as good and kind as dad, and as for mother, we wouldn't trade her for any society woman that smokes cigarets and drinks cocktails like his mother does. Don't you let them lord it over you. You're just as good as they are. I only hope that Kentfield is all you think he is. You deserve a real man, Lily Lou, and I only hope he turns out to be one!"

Lily Lou winced at that. She couldn't just make some polite answer. Bess would think she was changed already . . . .

So she wrote, with something like candor: "Yes, Ken's family was angry enough. Not very complimentary to me. But Ken broke with them when they tried to separate us . . . ."

"Tried to annul our marriage" was what she ought to write, but she couldn't quite do that. Instead she added another paragraph:

"You don't have to worry about me. It is true that Ken lost his job with his father, but the very day he left his father's office he had a job, and a better one, at another place."

DEPRESSING NEWS

Putting that into writing made her feel safer somehow. She hastened out to mail it. That would show Bess the sort of husband she had.

"He really is old for his age," she thought, determinedly, listening to his accounts of the office, at night. He really did seem interested and enthusiastic. She was foolish to worry that it wouldn't last . . . .

They had been in the apartment about a week when Ken came home a little late one evening.

"Dad came in to see me" he said guardedly.

Lily Lou pretended to bustle about the tiny kitchen. She stirred up the mashed potatoes, fussed with the biscuits she had heating in the oven. "What did he have to say?" she asked, when Ken just leaned against the kitchen door, watching.

Ken yawned. "Want me to do anything, Lily Lou? Oh, he didn't have much to say. He's trying to talk me out of it, of course."

The dish with the mashed potatoes leaped in her hands. "Trying to talk you out of what?"

"Oh, out of marriage, I guess." He laughed nervously.

Lily Lou was silent.

A little pulse over her eye began to throb. She put her hand over it. Tried to go on eating.

A HAPPY PAIR

Then Ken came over to her, put his arms around her, loved her. The chops congealed on the plate. The coffee cooled in the cups.

"Lily Lou, nothing in the whole world could make me leave you—"

"Or be sorry you married me?"

"No, honey, nothing—"

She laid her cheek next to his. "I believe you, Ken."

And afterward she thought "That puts the responsibility up to me."

They were so happy. So happy that sometimes she was afraid. Afraid it couldn't last, and she couldn't bear it if it didn't.

She took care of the little apartment herself, went out and bought flowers from the vendors on the streets. Came back and arranged them carefully, sorting and choosing with happy care. Red gladiolas on the library table in the brass opium bowl, great double-flowered white stock on the highboy in the little square hall, spicy white pinks with threads of purple in the Holland glass bowl on the table between their two silk-draped beds in the large rose and walnut bedroom.

May and Raymond came to dinner on Saturday night.

"This is something like," Raymond said, trying out the deepest armchair.

FIRST VISITORS

He lit one of Ken's cigars. Since their marriage Ken had taken to smoking cigars. Lily Lou knew, with a queer little lump in her throat, that it was because he thought they made him seem older . . . Queer how much of his boyishness was slipping away from him.

"Some day I'm going to have an electric icebox," May was saying. She loved the little cubes, pored over the recipe book that went with it. "I'd make all kinds of frozen desserts if I had one. I could fix them in the mornings—"

Lily Lou showed her everything with proud pleasure. Her new clothes, not many, but nice. The pigskin dressing case with the dark red fittings, that Ken had given her.

It was a lovely evening.

After they had gone, Lily Lou realized, with a little shock of pain, that it was the first company they had had. They had been so happy alone that they hadn't missed anyone, but that wasn't the way to do . . . She knew that . . . It was the way May and Raymond lived . . .

A little timidly she asked Ken if there wasn't someone he wanted to have for dinner and bridge.

"Sure. Maybe some night next week."

"Who, Ken? Who shall we have?"

"I don't know, honey. I'll think of someone—"

"Let's have it the first part of next week!"

She planned happily. Filet steak and green peas. Or was filet too expensive? But long before she had made up her mind, something happened, something that filled her with forebodings of tragedy to come.

Ken was late again. He hardly touched the beefsteak pie she had gone to so much trouble to make. "Headache?" she asked, anxiously.

"A little. Yes—it does—"

She sang to him softly after dinner. Little love songs, folk songs that he liked. She thought he seemed happier.

Some time during the night she woke. She heard a queer, choking, strangling noise.

"Ken—Ken—is that you?"

He did not answer.

She went to his bed, reached out to him in the darkness. She felt her hand wet with his tears. Ken . . . Ken was crying.

Lily Lou grasped the head of the bed, for support. The floor seemed to be giving way under her. She was afraid she was falling, falling through space, with the wind rushing by her closed eyes . . . But she knew she wasn't the kind who faints, or finds comfortable ways out. She was just standing there, grasping the bedpost for a moment because she felt dizzy. There was no gaping dark hole to swallow her up, the way she wished it would.

And Ken was lying face downward on his pillow, probably hating her because she'd waked up and knew he had sobbed. . . .

She didn't know what to do. Minutes passed. Long, miserable minutes. The funny, strangling sound had ceased.

She was suddenly desperate with loneliness. Anything but this terrible shut-out feeling. . . . anything but that. . . .

"Ken!" Her voice was hardly more than a breath. "Ken—it's Lily Lou. . . . Are you . . . awake?"

She waited, and there was no answer.

Presently she crept back to bed.

Ken leaned against the door and watched her.

Now Go On

ALL IN A DAY — By MARK HELLINGER

IT HAPPENED IN one of those all-night joints in Harlem. It is one of the worst dives, probably, in all New York. Owned by colored folks, it is patronized mainly by white people who are seeking thrills. Sometimes they get them. More often they do not.

On this particular night, there were thrills aplenty. Seated with me at a table was a mug whom I had met for the first time—and perhaps the last. His name, as I recall it, was Frankie. He was an ex-battler and now earned his living as best, or as worst, he could. Since I was digging for news, I was there alone. Since he was digging for coins, he was also alone. Accordingly, we sat alone. Diggers can't be choosers.

Suddenly it happened. A party of society folks—two of whom are in the Social Register, by the way—began to argue among themselves. The noise spread. And in less time than it takes to tell it to you, pretty little bottles were flying around the dive and the place was in an uproar.

Frankie turned to me.

"Sit quiet, buddy," he yodeled. "Dis t'ing ain't gonna last long. I ain't even gonna git into it."

Frankie didn't have to give me any advice. I've seen too many of these fights not to have learned a lesson. There are just three things that one should do in a cabaret fight. The first is to sit still. If that is impossible, the next best thing is to let your fist fly at anybody in particular.

And the third, and most important thing, is to run like the very devil. It may not be brave—but it's prudent. Being brave in a cafe brawl is a great deal like being the champion in a pie-eating contest. After all is said and done, what of it?

At any rate, one of the society gals suddenly picked on my partner, Frankie. It was not his fault. She was looking for trouble. She was running from table to table, waving her fists and shrieking at the top of her none-too-gentle voice.

Well, as Sophocles once said, "shriek and ye shall find." This lady found plenty. For no reason at all, she stopped at our table, reached down and slapped Frankie. She ignored me completely. And this was one time that being ignored by a lady didn't annoy me in the slightest.

Frankie arose. So did his temper. His fist shot out and struck the lady plump on the nose. She spun around once or twice and then landed with a crash on top of the bass drum. Frankie didn't wait any longer. He ran up the stairs and out of the joint as fast as he could.

That blow ended the fight. They carried the lady out—with two or three men to keep her company. Five minutes later the band was playing again. All was peaceful now—until the next fight.

Shortly after, I decided to leave. Getting my hat, I marched out of the dive and then swung up Seventh avenue. About a block away from the place I spied Frankie. His face was buried in his hands, and he looked the picture of dejection.

I walked up to him.

"Say, Frankie!" I cried. "I wouldn't feel so badly about that thing. After all, she asked for it. And, furthermore, if she had any sense she wouldn't have been in a joint like that. You lost your temper. That was all."

I was trying to cheer him up because I liked the way the poor fellow had taken the thing to heart. He had struck a woman. He was sorry for it. Very sorry. That was good.

He looked at me through sorrowful eyes.

"I'm getting' old!" he cried. "Gettin' very old. I aims for dat dame's chine so as I kin knock out a coupla teeth fer her. An' look where I hits her. On de nose! Me eyes ain't wot dey used to be." . . .

WALTER O'KEEFE steps forward with a new story about a house detective. I like stories about house detectives. No matter how silly they are, they still sound reasonable.

At any rate, this gumshoe was patrolling the third floor of a well known hotel in this city. It was early in April and a large ball was in progress on the main floor. This detective was a huge individual with a florid face. One of those florids that bloom in the spring, you know.

Along about 3 in the morning the detective stepped around a turn in his corridor just in time to see a drunk trying a door. He stood and watched. The drunk, finding that door locked, tried another. And another. And another.

By this time the detective was convinced that everything was not quite on the level. So he stepped out and grabbed the stew by the shoulder.

"Say," he growled. "Waddya think you're doin' around here, hey?"

The drunk shook him away.

"Lissen, big boy," muttered the stew. "You betta beat it. Get me. I'm a big guy, I am. You better lemme alone, you silly lookin' mug."

The detective placed a heavy hand on his shoulder.

"You can't talk like that to me, young feller," he growled. "Do you know who I am?"

The drunk staggered slightly and shook his head.

"No," he responded affably, "But if you'll leave your name an' address, I'll see tha' you get home all right!"

Make Me No Vows

Make me no vows this hour is enough.
Why waste one thought on distant hours to be?
When was love wrought of such enduring stuff
That it must bargain for eternity?
This hour was granted you and me alone.
An hour touched with mysteries divine;
Then let us wait until this hour has flown
Before we storm the treasure-house of time!
Yet love has ever thrust today aside.
Since lack of surety breeds lack of all.
And with the first faint ebb of passion's tide
It seeks to pledge and hold beyond recall.
Make me no vows. This hour for you and me
Is promise of love's immortality!

MANCHURIA JUNCTION — Sometimes I think that I just never will get home to see all you folksies, what with one thing and another. It is so hard to break away from friends who have become very dear to me, and when I explain to them that in the United States excitement is rife over my home-coming, they just laugh and nudge me in the ribs and say, "Oh, stick around." For instance, the other night there was a demonstration that was very pleasing to me. I was being triumphantly wheeled toward the dock in a beautifully decorated chair, by the Staunch Admirers of Horace W. Frisby, Manchu Post, when all of a sudden, like a clap of thunder, a pleasant little woman rushed up. "Don't let this man go," she cried piteously, and it took much cajolery on my part to convince her that when Duty calls, answer I must. It developed later that she thought I was a Mr. Dalton R. Nickhammer, with whom she had a blind date. So it just goes to show, doesn't it.

How Congress Can Help

Lifting of Anti-Trust Straitjacket Would Encourage Business and Contribute to Relief of Unemployment

There is before the upper house a sensible measure proposed by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, to hearten honest business executives by modernization of the anti-trust laws.

Known as Senate bill 3256, it has been properly described as a law to "protect and foster trade and commerce."

It would transform the federal government from a policeman wielding a nightstick over organized business into a civilized agency for GUIDING BUSINESS ALONG SOCIALLY USEFUL LINES.

The fatuity of a mere negative attitude of curbing and discouraging business initiative has been fully demonstrated in recent months as more than 7,000,000 Americans have hopelessly trudged the streets without employment.

In 1890, there was a need to place restraint on greedy corporations. THERE STILL IS IN 1932.

But the larger objective should be to promote economic balance in order that business enterprises may expand and develop and people able and willing to work may be employed at high, effective wages, and so fully enjoy the bountifulness of nature and the product of modern industrial efficiency.

Archaic anti trust laws instead make it a criminal offense for competitors to sit around a table to determine means of promoting co-operation, economic order and consequent business prosperity.

Senator Walsh has suggested a way out, which conforms to the demand long made in the Hearst newspapers for rationalization of our anti-trust laws.

The Senator from Massachusetts would leave the Sherman act and the Clayton acts, with their punitive clauses, on the statute books, but he would exempt from their jurisdiction certain business contracts when and if APPROVED BY THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

In refusing to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation two decades ago, the United States Supreme Court paved the way for Senator Walsh's amendment.

The high tribunal applied the famous "rule of reason" doctrine to the interpretation of the anti-trust law. It gave a broad rather than a literal interpretation of the Sherman act. Holding in effect that the steel corporation was a good trust, it refused to dissolve it because it had not restrained commerce "unreasonably."

But the court still left a wide twilight zone, which has paralyzed the initiative of business builders.

Senator Walsh would cease making a fetish of "restraint of trade" and would instead apply to business deals the common sense test of whether or not THEY ARE IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST.

The essence of the Walsh amendment lies in these words:

"If the commission (federal trade) is of the opinion that the contract is in the public interest, it shall issue and cause to be served on the petitioner, an order approving the contract, or failing such opinion it shall issue and cause to be served on the petitioner, an order disapproving the same.

"Without in any way limiting the power of the commission to determine whether the contract is or is not in the public interest, it shall be considered presumptive evidence that such contract is in the public interest if it results in a fair and reasonable compensation to producers of average ability and efficiency and to labor, and does not result in a selling price of the goods or commodities covered thereby, in excess of a fair and reasonable price based on all fair and reasonable items of cost plus fair and reasonable profit, BUT THE BURDEN OF PROVING THAT THE CONTRACT IS IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST SHALL BE ON THE PETITIONER."

The public is protected against abuse of power by the regulatory commission, by a provision that all rulings shall be SUBJECT TO REVIEW ON PETITION BY AN AGGRIEVED PARTY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS.

The bill provides for the enlargement of the commission to a membership of nine. With the added duties, the personnel should consist of men of the highest integrity and discernment. Without an able personnel, the new formula can hardly succeed.

The bill opens the way for law and order in business in place of cut-throat competition and business anarchy.

It would stop anti-social wastage of natural resources.

It opens the gates wide for proper price-fixing and beneficial merger agreements.

It would give businessmen wide opportunity to build a rational economic system, which could provide consumers with low prices and good service, and labor with high, real wages.

It would help to end the anomaly of want and privation amidst plenty.

It would help to end pauperization of millions of unemployed because productive energy is misdirected.

The powers that be in Washington should recognize that the business public does not consist of innocents, who can be bamboozled by superficial anti-hoarding drives, but of intelligent men who will be heartened by genuine economic reform.

Passage of the Walsh bill would do its full share toward promoting business confidence and breaking the deadlock of paralyzing depression.

Stadtfeld May Gain

But Local Republican Leaders Should Be Slow to Enter Into Deals With the Philadelphia Machine.

With three places to be filled on the bench of the Superior Court as the result of Gov. Pinchot's appointment of Judge William B. Linn to the Supreme Court, there is now a possibility that the Philadelphia Republican organization may place Judge Joseph Stadtfeld on its slate as one of its candidates for the Superior Court.

It is to be hoped that Judge Stadtfeld will win the support of the Philadelphia machine, for it will virtually assure his election, and Pennsylvania needs men of his caliber in the courts.

In return for supporting Judge Stadtfeld, however, it is not unlikely that the Vare crowd would demand from the local Republican leaders substantial favors of one kind or another. The Pittsburghers should be slow to enter into deals.

There are advantages in pursuing an independent course.

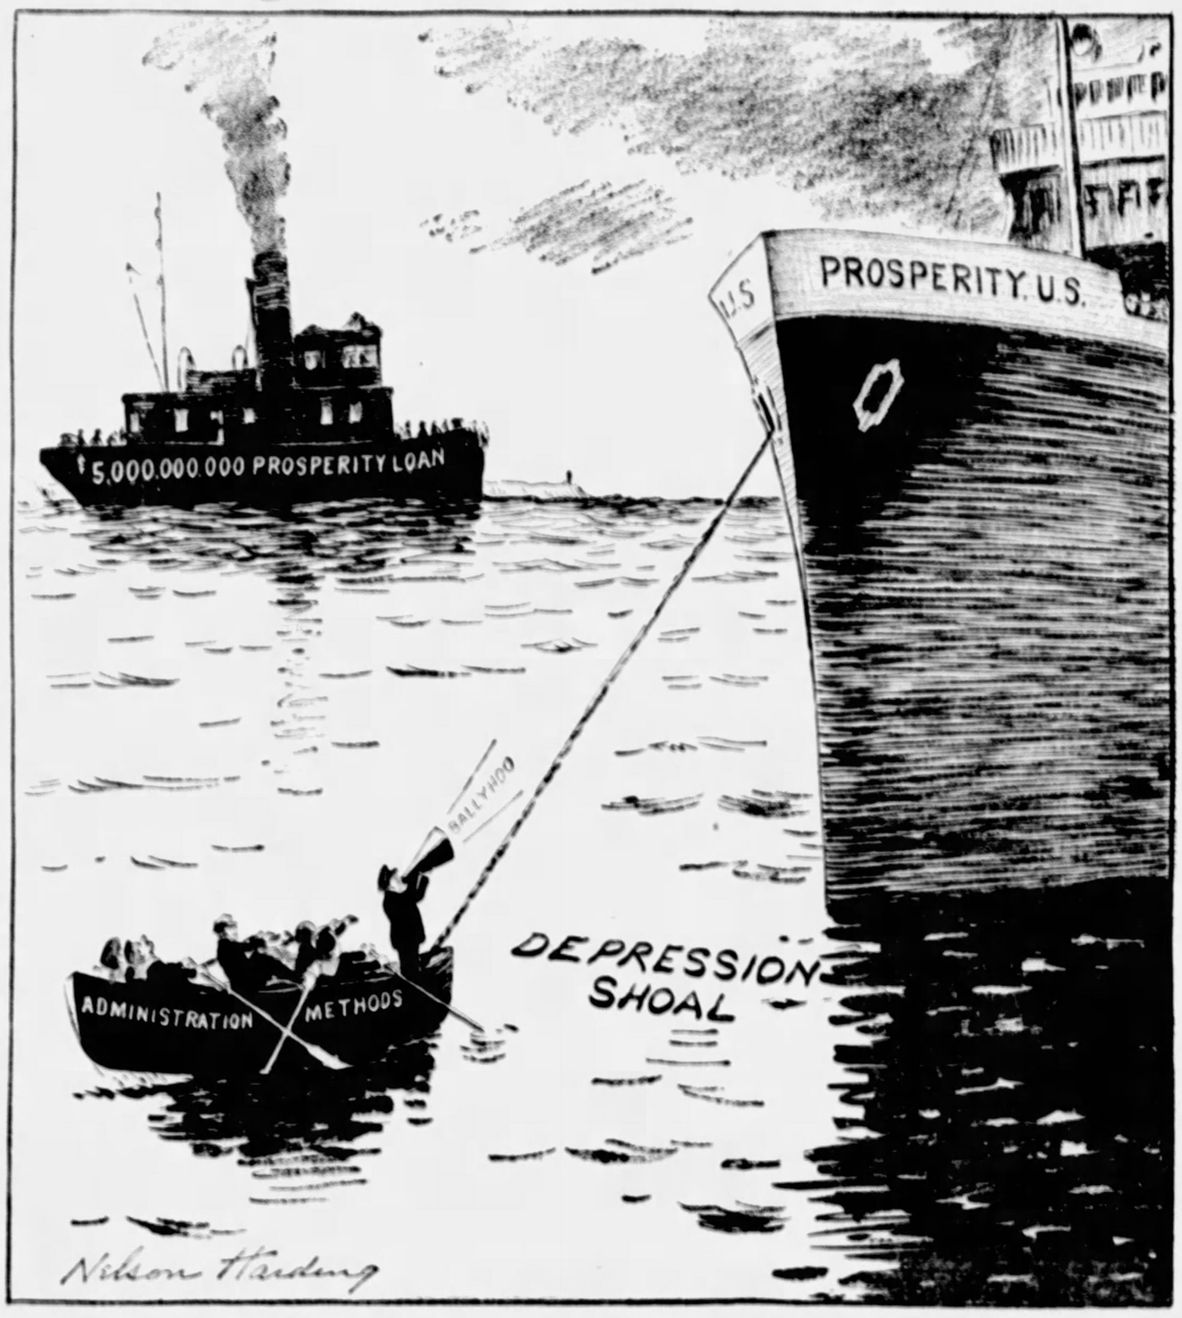
Get a Tug!

By Nelson Harding



When ocean liners run aground
Their officers don't fool around
With rowers in a little boat
To try to get the ship afloat.

They call a tugboat powerful,
Equipped with towing lines, to pull
The vessel with its idle hands
From where it's stranded in the sands.

Snitching Democratic Property

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

"We thought we wanted to abolish a lot of useless bureaus, but hell's bells, the President wants to create some new offices."

In a sentence, Speaker Garner thus characterizes the President's message requesting autocratic power in the reorganization of government and sent to Congress in the third year of his regime only after the Democratic House had started action.

Aside from the transparent politics in the all too tardy remembrance of a broken pledge, the plan itself makes for a still greater concentration of power in the hands of the Executive.

The proposal to put all public works under an administrator named by the President, and amenable to him, will never have the support of Congress—and should not have. The House with a program of its own will proceed as though the message had not been sent. No President in history has fallen back on commissions and independent boards as much as Mr. Hoover. Representative Byrns moved in the right direction when he said:

"We could make a good start in the interest of economy and efficiency by abolishing them and devolving their duties upon the legally constituted agencies of this government."

Bankers Opposed Federal Reserve Act

On a par with the attempt to seize upon the Democratic program and take credit for the administration is the attempt, properly resented by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, to credit the administration with the Glass-Steagall bank bill. He named dates, names and occasions to prove that the administration, until very recently, was opposing the features of the bill now being praised. Only three weeks ago both Mr. Mellon, "greatest Secretary of the Treasury since Hamilton," and Ogden Mills "emphatically and unqualifiedly disapproved."

The bankers too, now entirely satisfied, until but the other day were clamoring for the defeat of the Glass plan, and there was much editorializing in New York City about the pathos of the decline in judgment of the Virginia Senator after he had rendered distinguished service in the framing of the Federal Reserve act.

These bankers conveniently forgot that they were opposed to the Federal Reserve act as well; that in their national convention at Boston they all but mobbed a man who spoke in favor of it, and the Republican Senators, with one or two exceptions, all voted against it. This is history—the record.

* * *

The Record Up-to-Date

Senator Glass brings the record up to date in a speech in the Senate:

"Some bankers appear to feel it a personal affront that we have not permitted them to write the bill. Two of them sent hundreds of telegrams from one end of the country to the other in a precipitate effort to kill the so-called 'Glass bill.'"

At the time the Federal Reserve Act was pending the late Senator Kern, on request, accompanied three Indiana bankers to the White House that they might point out to President Wilson the fatal defects in the measure. They explained to the Senator that they did not doubt the President's good intentions, but that, not being a banker but only a professor and statesman, he naturally did not know.

Wilson heard them courteously and in silence. At length the spokesman made a protest against one feature of the bill. Wilson seemed interested. The others now joined in pouncing upon that one phase. Finally they agreed that the measure would not be so bad but for that feature—but that made the bill impossible. And then Wilson smiled.

"Gentlemen, have you read the bill? he asked.

They assured him they had slept with it.

He summoned a clerk, asked for a copy of the bill, passed it to the spokesman and said: "Point out this feature to me."

The banker turned and turned the pages, getting redder every second—it was not there.

"Now gentlemen," said Wilson, "that is the trouble. You represent in a large sense the great commercial interests of a great section and we are trying to serve you; but a great bank in New York that does not want to see you served sends out its own analysis of this bill—a false one—and you accept it without even reading the bill."

The bankers left the White House less cocky than when they entered.

Administration Claims Everything

Incredible as it may seem there is a persistent effort to show that the Federal Reserve act was the fruit of Republican statesmanship. Even "historians" have been engaged to give dignity to that miserable fabrication.

The proof that it is a Republican measure is that every Republican in the Senate with the exception of one or two voted to kill it.

And now the administration is to be credited with the Glass-Steagall bill—if mere "guts" can bring it about.

Perhaps the hour has about struck to end the "recess to politics." There has been no recess on the part of the administration—which proposes to claim everything. Those speeches on Hoover's—or was it Lincoln's birthday?—were warning enough. There is a superabundance of ammunition in the Democratic arsenal—and it is there to use.

An Amazing Situation

Meanwhile Postmaster-General Brown is working feverishly to suppress the anti-Hoover sentiment in his party, and is having trouble even in his own state of Ohio. He owns the state organization. This organization appoints an advisory committee; and this advisory committee, hand-picked by Brown, endorses the President for renomination. Not satisfied with this, the busy Mr. Brown modestly proposes that he be permitted to hand-pick the delegates to the convention, and he is having trouble about that. It will be observed that all these plans utterly ignore the rank and file of the party in Ohio.

The inevitable conclusion is that even in Mr. Brown's own state it is consudered dangerous to permit the operation of the free will of the rank and file of the Republican party on the renomination of Mr. Hoover. If the rank and file cannot be trusted in the primaries or convention, how can it be trusted in the election?

An amazing situation! A president serving his first term, and by precedent almost always conceded the right to renomination; no pronounced opposition; the convention within three months; and yet a spirit of panic in the administration camp. The Bull Moose days when Mr. Brown marched at the head of an army with banners singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" are hopelessly remote. There is no singing now; and the banners of 1928 seem silly now.

* * *

Poor Mr. Brown!

Mr. Brown's advisory committee, in its resolutions, stoutly declared itself against "American participation in international conferences"—overlooking the fact that America never has participated so much, and so futilely, as under Mr. Hoover. Some one happily remembered, and suggested it "might prove a boomerang"—and it was stricken out.

Poor Mr. Brown! It is not enough to appoint an advisory committee—it must have another committee to advise it.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Oh Promise Me!

Most marriages, these days, begin with the signing of some sort of pre-war contract. Or is it a peace-pact?

* * *

People seem to have a positive passion for signing themselves and each other up to all sorts of binding promises. The good old marriage vows which include only the promise to love, honor, cherish and cleave unto one another, aren't good enough for this popular new form of "contractual marriage." We moderns are all from Missouri—and we demand a guarantee!

You've got to state clearly your stand on the mother-in-law question, the collar-button question, the tooth-paste question, the budget question, the lipstick question, the pocket-money question, the guest-towel question and the breakfast-in-bed question. And to put it in writing!

* * *

She has to give a solemn pledge that he can bring an unexpected guest home to dinner, without said guest being glared at or insulted. And he must take oath that she can invite her family to visit her, without apologizing.

* * *

HE has to promise that he'll shave at least once a day, have his hair cut regularly, and take the dog out without complaining; and SHE has to promise that she won't leave her hair in the comb, or expect him to live on her reducing diet.

The stipulations and covenants on the diet and bridge questions, alone, might fill two closely typed pages. Because a man's stomach and a woman's figure are equally sacred. And, while a little bridge is supposed to connect most things, there is nothing like a little bridge-quarrel to separate two otherwise perfectly-mated souls. In fact, it is almost fatal for a bridge-minded man to marry a woman who is NOT bridge-minded, and yet insists on playing.

* * *

But the average man doesn't mind signing a little thing like a pre-matrimonial contract, because he doesn't intend to keep it unless he wants to, anyhow. A little thing like that would never disturb a man's beauty sleep.

* * *

YOU know how he is about his marriage vows. Before marriage, he never thinks about them; during the ceremony he doesn't hear them; and after marriage, he can't remember them. His motto, like a politician's, is "Promise everything, until the campaign is over!"

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Roy L. McCardell, newspaper humorist, who could sneak off to the chimney corner with his winnings in prize puzzle contests, is conducting what he humorously calls "The Great International Pure Prose and Poetry Plant" in a suite of offices amid the jangle of West Forty-seventh street.

While it is a dynamic one-man institution, there is an impression of automatic verse knitters and fiction fashioners chopping words from dictionaries, assembling nouns, verbs and adjectives with sex syrup gadgets interjecting passion appeal on proper or improper pages.

No one has squeezed so much out of a syndicate idea as McCardell with his "Jarr Family." It ran for 18 years in the old Evening World, was made into 20 different motion pictures, 10 phonograph records, and has been a vaudeville skit for 10 years.

From Tin Pan Alley is was hawked as a song, "Said Mrs. Jarr to Mr. Jarr," featured by the late Nat Wills. The idea still goes the rounds in "boiler plate" for provincial weeklies, and only recently McCardell sold the rights for $20,000 a year to a radio concern.

McCardell, in his 50s, turns out several poems a week, has written two books a year, a hundred feature stories for magazines, as many Sunday features for newspapers, fulfilled a hundred lecture engagements and continues to work out puzzles and limerick last lines.

He is a picturesquely genial figure in the literary parade, beginning life as a coal weigher in a Maryland mine. Today he resides in a $35,000 home in suburban New Rochelle—a home won, incidentally, in one of his many successful endeavors in the prize contest field.

I never pass the Hippodrome without a thought of that tragic mime, Slivers. And Slivers recalls a memorable day in the circus when a fellow Toby catapulted from a springboard to hurdle six elephants in a row and missed. There was the sharp pistol-like crack of a broken neck. Slivers whispered instructions to two other clowns who propped the limp victim between them and with Slivers leading the way in exaggerated buffoonery exited to a roar of laughs. Slivers then hugged the dead clown to him in a freshet of tears—and fell half fainting.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"I've been terribly hurt by someone I loved," she writes. "For a while it seemed as if I could never go on again; then I realized I had to live, in spite of everything. So now—I'm trying to forget."

Don't try to forget.

Forgetting won't do you any good. In the first place, it's impossible. You can't forget. You can only bury that unhappy memory within your consciousness—heap new thoughts over it, as you'd heap blankets over carrion. But beneath the blankets the carrion would continue to decay—and spread its poison.

And so the sordid memory, buried in your consciousness, would continue to do its evil work and spread its poison, subtly, but with deadly certainty, through all your life.

Don't try to forget an injury. Don't even try to forgive; for most foregiveness is based on a false idea. It assumes that you're better than the chap you're forgiving, and you're not. Maybe you have the bulge on him as regards a few virtues, but it's dollars to doughnuts that, if the record were audited, you'd be in the red as much as he.

And so forgiveness rarely heals a wound. It simply puts the offender under an irritating obligation for which, sooner or later, he'll get even if he has an ounce of gumption.

If you really want to heal a wound in your life, don't try to forget. Don't try to forgive. TRY TO UNDERSTAND.

Try to understand why the other fellow did what he did. You think it was because he wanted to hurt you? That isn't so. He may have hurt you. He may, seemingly, have planned to hurt you. But beneath that planning lay a deeper, sadder motive.

THAT MAN HURT YOU BECAUSE HE WAS HURT HIMSELF.

HE SCARRED YOUR LIFE BECAUSE HIS OWN WAS SCARRED.

Something was sick in him. Life had warped him, somehow. His spirit was poisoned by loneliness, fear, cowardice, envy, remorse or hate; and to sooth that agony, to compensate for his own suffering, he made you suffer.

IF YOU CAN UNDERSTAND HIS SUFFERING, YOU'LL HEAL YOUR OWN.

And until you do understand his suffering, your own will never be healed. Always that hurt will lie festering within you.

TRY TO UNDERSTAND.

Put aside the memory of your own affront. Go to him as a friend, or, if you cannot go to him, think of him as a friend should think—with pitying comprehension. Forego revenge for your own injured egotism. Force yourself to see the greater injury that lies in his own tortured nature. Try to heal that injury.

If you will do that, a very remarkable thing will happen to you.

The sting of the hurt will entirely vanish. You will feel as impersonal about that affront or betrayal as you would feel about a clot of mud on your heel, or the story of some historical wrong in which you had no part. You will see that hurt as God sees it—without personal indignation.

And with the release from personal resentment, your whole life will take on a new freedom, a new wisdom and power. You will see everything from an entirely different angle.

You will be as a traveler who has journeyed a long time through a dark and tangled gully and who suddenly comes out upon a mountain top—for you will have left the narrow gully of yourself. You will see far and wide to the distant reaches of the human spirit, and from that day on you will have a greater power over all spirits, including your own.

Don't try to forget a wrong, nor even to forgive. Try rather to understand that wrong and "the truth will set you free."
